...onkey and the Masses
... All Copper Men
RACE ... Lawyers
...,000 in Jewels

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

WHAT IS THE AVERAGE level of civilization among human beings? When the airship R-100 reached England, returning across the ocean, only a gathering of 50 friends and relatives of passengers and crew, plus a few stragglers, welcomed the dirigible's return. English attention was concentrated on a cricket test match.

IN THE MONKEY house, with peanuts on the floor, no monkey would notice the most important arrival, not even Darwin himself. The distance separating the masses from the monkeys is not as great as some, among the masses, imagine.

LAST WEEK copper fell to its lowest price in 20 years. This suggestion is offered to copper producers. Offer copper, in thin sheets of various thicknesses, suitable for flashing and other building and repairing purposes. Sell it to farmers, householders and others at the lowest profitable price, and unload your surplus.

GET CO-OPERATION from mail order houses and hardware stores, and advertise a definite price, 15 cents a pound. If possible, tell how many there are in a pound of thin copper sheetings, and why it is better than tin or galvanized iron.

The copper surplus could be disposed of, if copper men would unite in a really intelligent, persistent advertising campaign, using extensively the country weeklies, read by farmers, among other mediums.

This column would buy a few thousand pounds of copper sheeting properly priced, to start the sale, and make money on it.

THE AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION, to meet 3,000 strong in Chicago this week, will hear from its committee on American citizenship that the farm act, devised to aid farmers, is "the first step to a socialistic government." Is it not a terrible menace to our institutions, our beloved Constitution and our government by corporations, directed by lawyers?

LAWYERS DISCOVER that the act is not meant "to provide for the general welfare." It is intended to help the farmers.

There are only 20,000,000 of them, so what do they amount to?

WHEN, NOT long ago, the national government lent tens of millions to one Brooklyn street car concern, threatened with bankruptcy, that helped only a handful of stockholders, and some more or less honest promoters of watered stock, and not a bar association committee peeped, or muttered.

THAT BROOKLYN concern, about to sell out to the city of New York, which originally paid for the building of its subways, protests that two hundred and odd millions, offered by the city, is shamefully inadequate.

Nothing like that ever happened to farmers.

THREE AMERICAN Senators, visiting Russia, were invited to inspect Russia's royal jewels, collected through centuries by the czars, now owned by the Soviet, worth $250,000,000.

No other nations possess such jewels. The Senators and others saw the jewels, lying on the tables, not guarded by any armed men.

Here, our Federal Reserve urges all employers to pay by check, because cash payrolls are never safe. We might learn something about honesty from the "base Bolsheviks."

IN THE REGULAR course of business, before the war, one unimportant Russian was put to death, under the knout, by the czar's government, for political offenses.

That Russian's younger brother looked on, and his name was Lenin. The czars are gone, great St. Petersburg, built by the Czar Peter the Great, is now called Leningrad, and the Romanoff jewels belong to Communists that will gradually trade them off for agricultural machinery, a wise trade, although Congo savages and many charming American ladies would not think so.

Whatever your opinion of Bolshevism, you must admire the complete way Lenin avenged his brother.

BRITISH SCIENTISTS, 23 years ago, examined the mummy of Pharaoh Meneptah, and now Lord Monyihan reveals facts immensely interesting to fundamentalist clergymen. Meneptah seems to have been the Pharaoh of the oppression, of whom the Bible says "and the Lord hardened the heart of Pharaoh, and he would not let them (the Israelites) go."

The Pharaoh's body was found drowned, encrusted with common salt, indicating that he was drowned in the Red Sea, when the waters rolled back.

And his heart was found to be actually hardened, as proved by calcified patches on the aorta, now in the Royal College of Surgeons. The mummification was extraordinarily effective, as though to confound later modernist skeptics.

William J. Bryan should have heard of that.

Ventura, Called by Radio, Reaches South Sea Wreck In Time to Avert Disaster

International News Service.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Aug. 18.—Grim sea annals that have registered many tragic stories of death and disaster today contained the dramatic version of an epic victory wrested by man from the watery depths.

The completeness of the victory was attested by the fact 104 passengers and a crew of 148 from the ill-fated British steamship Tahiti today were proceeding in safety and comfort toward San Francisco on a rescue ship, leaving their own vessel foundering on the bosom of the rolling South Pacific, 460 miles southwest of Raratonga in the Cook Islands. The Tahiti sank at 1:30 a. m. (Pittsburgh time).

Even the stricken ship's mail cargo was salvaged without the loss of a single item.

"All hands aboard saved!"

Such was the cryptic but thrilling climax affixed to the sea epic by Capt. A. T. Toten, of the Tahiti, in a message radioed to an anxious maritime world.

THREE RACE TO RESCUE

In danger of foundering since Saturday, after casting her propeller and tail-shaft, hundreds of miles off the regular shipping lanes while on the way from Australia to San Francisco, the Tahiti flung out an S. O. S. that launched three vessels, miles apart, on a dramatic race to the stricken vessel in time to take aboard the terrified passengers and hopeful crew.

The Norwegian steamship Penybyrn was the first to sight the listing funnels of the helpless ship but the captain of the Tahiti preferred to keep his passengers aboard until danger became more acute, to avoid transferring his passengers and crew to another vessel while a heavy sea endangered such operations.

With the freighter standing by carefully watching the disabled vessel, the Matson liner Ventura finally drew alongside after a record dash from the Samoa Island regions and hove to, hardly a few moments before the third bulkhead of the Tahiti gave way, listing her sharply to port.

DONE WITHOUT HITCH

Passengers who with lifebelts attached had hung together, awaiting orders to abandon ship, immediately filed in the best of order into the lifeboats and seasoned crews from three vessels manned the oars. Despite a fast-running sea, the transfer of the passengers, many of them Americans, was accomplished without as much as a wetting to any one of them. They were allowed to take along a load of their most prized possessions.

The crew immediately afterward took to the lifeboats, with Capt. Toten last to leave, according to late reports.

Pittsburgh Woman In Wreck of Tahiti

SAN GABRIEL, Cal., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—On board the Tahiti, which sank, and among the passengers transferred to the Matson liner Ventura, was Miss Florence C. Morrison, a resident of Pittsburgh until recently. Miss Morrison was well known in the Oakland district of the Pennsylvania city.

RAIDS MENACE LOTTERIES

The Hill district "numbers" pools, prosperous and unharmed by reduced payoff scales, were faced today with the realization that Alderman Martin J. Griffin, crusading against the racket, was becoming a real menace.

Constables from Griffin's office, who have been picking off crack "writers" of the syndicates for the last two weeks, intensified their campaign today when they raided three stores in the district.

"Stonewall" Jackson, 2301 Reed street; Bradley Boyd, 2336 Wylie avenue, and George Randall, of 2217 Center avenue, were arrested, charged with selling lottery tickets. Three men, arrested Saturday, will be given hearings today.

Notices officially informing "writers" and players that "doublets" and "triplets" will pay the player only 300-to-1 were circu-

Man Must Be American, Not Over 35; Prefers One Of Vallee's Type

For $8,000, Gertrure Schrader, 18, pretty and out of work, will marry any man providing he is an American and under 35. She lives at 5338 Kincaid street, East End.

The $8,000, Miss Schrader said today, is immediately necessary to save her father from blindness.

Miss Schrader's offer was first made in the form of an advertisement submitted to, but refused by a New York newspaper.

LIVES WITH PARENTS

The girl lives with her parents and a 12-year-old brother.

Miss Schrader describes herself as "educated and pretty." She attended high school and business college here.

The girl said:

"I prefer someone of the Rudy Vallee type. But he doesn't have to be able to play the saxophone."

Then she became serious, and said:

"I've sold everything I have and now I might as well sell myself. I can't be choosy in accepting any offer. But I will not take one cent less than $8,000, and the man must be an American. I prefer someone about 22 to 24 years old, but will go as high as 35, and I want him to be good, clean, innocent and gracious.

"Children? I don't think I would be interested in a family for the first couple of years. I would make my husband a good

Duquesne Student Falls to His Death

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 18. Leo Stader, 22, a law student at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh, was killed when a third-story balcony railing gave way at the home of his mother, Mrs. Joseph L. Stader, here. He plunged to the sidewalk, his neck being broken.

Secretary Mellon Here, Confers With Son

Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the Treasury, was in Pittsburgh today. He came here after spending a brief holiday at Rolling Rock, exclusive country club at Ligonier, and leaves for Washington tonight.

He was visited by his son Paul, in the offices of the Mellon National Bank, and conferred with Howard M. Johnson, who handles his personal affairs here.

The secretary said that his department is co-operating with other government agencies in investigating means of giving relief to drought-strickent areas. He stated that it is impossible for anyone to call the turn in business conditions.

The current depression, in his opinion, is a world-wide condition resulting from over-production, which the curtailment in output will shortly correct.

Secretary Mellon admitted that it was a relief to have prohibition enforcement off his hands.

SUICIDE SWIFT'S WIFE ILL, MYSTERY

Baltimore Hospital, Where She Is Patient, Refuses to Divulge Any Information

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Society, startled by the suicide of William Swift, sustained a second surprise at the news that his widow, Helen Morton Bayley Swift, is dangerously ill in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore. The mystery which shrouded the tragic death of the husband lay as heavily on the ailing wife.

Inquiries as to the nature of her illness, the date of her arrival and her prospects for recovery remained unanswered.

DRAMATIC CAREER

Mrs. Swift's career from girlhood has been melodramatic in the extreme. She has been twice married, once adjudged insane, and on several occasions ran away from home into seclusion.

Helen Morton was the daughter of Mark Morton and the niece of Paul Morton, secretary of the Navy in the Roosevelt administration.

August 10, 1921, she was married to William Swift at the home of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy.

PISTOL MYSTERY

Police today were trying to determine how and where Swift obtained the pistol with which he ended his life in a Park avenue sanitarium Saturday night. Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, deputy chief medical examiner, also sought to learn whether Swift had taken narcotics or liquor.

RECALL JEANNE EAGLES

The tragedy occurred on the same floor of the same Park Avenue sanitarium where Jeanne Eagels, beautiful actress, who also once had everything to live for, died a year ago.

Their paths had crossed occasionally along the street on which the sun never sets. It was "here comes Jeanne Eagels" and "there goes Billy Swift" in those Broadway places of merriment where good fellows get together.

The youngest son of the Chicago packing magnate was a dashing figure. He had distinguished himself as an athlete, horseman and was a naval ensign during the war. Ten years ago he was one of the most popular bachelors in Lake Forest, Ill.

WEDS DIVORCEE

Young Swift began a romantic courtship of Mrs. Helen Morton Bayley, divorcee, in 1921 after he had fallen under one of her horses. He married her shortly afterwards.

Billy Swift renounced the packing business in 1924, much to his father's disappointment, and became a broker. His wife and he lived apart for various periods. There is a child, William E., Jr., 5 years old. Swift was 35.

The body was released from the morgue and taken to a funeral chapel yesterday. Alden Swift arrived from Chicago today to accompany his brother's body home.

COURT CHECKS KING EDWARD CHISELING

Apartment, Over Property Line, Faced With Damage Suit; Walls Being Chipped

Work of chipping off a portion of the King Edward apartments' wall, at Bayard and Craig streets, in an effort to forestall a damage suit brought by neighbors who charge the apartment encroaches on their property, was halted temporarily today by Judge Harry H. Rowand.

Rowand granted a preliminary injunction asked by Attorney John H. and Anna Lauer, owners of a duplex adjoining, when Attorney R. B. Gabler appeared for them in court this morning.

SUIT INVOLVED

The plan charged by counsel for the Lauers is that the apartment house owners intend chipping away the stonework, diminishing it from 5½ inches at the top to 2½ inches at the foundation. This is being done, it was charged, as an effort to forestall a damage suit brought by the Lauers for alleged encroachment on their property.

A. W. Peterson, named in the action as the owner of the King Edward apartments, is restrained, along with workmen, from the use of chisels, blow torches and machinery for chipping away the wall. Gabler charged such work endangered the adjoining property and was a danger to passers-by.

M'SORLEY FREED

Yesterday John McSorley, one of the operators of the apartments, was arrested when police said he started an argument with them after they warned him to stop work. Chips falling to the street from the defaced wall were a danger of injuring pedestrians, they said. At a hearing in Oakland Police Court he was discharged, but not before police exacted the promise that no more debris would fall to the sidewalk.

Further complicating the attempt to chisel away the wall was a barricade erected last night on

M'GOVERN CHARGES WASTE

'I Hold You Responsible,' He Tells Colleague at Hearing on Accusations

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong was held responsible for alleged "bungling" of the county-city airport project by Minority Commissioner Charles C. McGovern at an open hearing today to determine whether there had been "bungling" of any sort.

The accusation came when Armstrong adjourned the meeting for a noon recess and gave orders for those people who made the plans of the site "and who are responsible" to testify later in the day."

BLAMES ARMSTRONG

McGovern said:

"Mr. Armstrong, I am going to hold you responsible!"

McGovern, who read a barrage of charges to the meeting during most of the forenoon session, clashed with Armstrong and Norman S. Brown, director of county public works, several times after he asked Brooks Ross, a county engineer, to testify.

He continued:

"I was under the impression, Mr. Ross, that your department had made an estimate to provide a county-city airport for $1,500,000."

Ross replied:

"Provision was made in the plans to erect more projects in the future as deemed necessary."

OTHER PROJECTS

"I want to tell you that all that was expected to be done has been done, and the 150-day delay in the work has been due to bad weather."

McGovern queried:

"What about the picture of the airport?"

Ross answered:

"Oh, that was drawn to make it look as it will in 10 or 20 years from now."

McGovern answered:

"Was it your belief that the county commissioners intended to build a complete airport?"

ARMSTRONG INTERVENES

Armstrong interjected:

"This man is just an employe. He isn't responsible. If there is any question, Director Brown should answer it. We will call in the people who made the plans and who are responsible."

McGovern was the first to address the meeting. He was as a lawyer reading his brief to the judges on the bench. In this case the jurists were Armstrong, Babcock and Armstrong's secretary, Roy Walters.

Throughout all the campaign for the erection of an airport, propaganda appeared to be the outstanding feature. McGovern intimated in his "address."

"BREACH OF FAITH"

He said:

"It was my understanding that the $1,500,000 and the $500,000 contributed by the city

Coolidge Urges Steps To Curb Unemployment

NORTHAMPTON, Aug. 18.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

One of the most powerful influences in retarding business recovery is fear. While some can afford that luxury, to many others it means lack of work and real suffering.

Both the salary earners and the wage earners fear discharge and loss of income. Having seen others discharged they fear they will be next. Anticipating such a calamity they buy only the bare necessities and save against possible unemployment. This is paralyzing the usual flow of commodities and results in the vicious circle of smaller sales, less people employed and decreased buying power.

Calvin Coolidge

Already some leading industries have announced that they will not reduce wages. That is fine, if they furnish work. While time and natural readjustment are the only complete remedies for business recovery, improvement can be made in two ways.

Let employers post notices that there will be no more discharges except for cause. Another suggestion already made needs emphasizing. Let all who can, give work at least to one person. Acute conditions require drastic remedies. The property of individuals and stockholders will be worth more in the future if it is used to help those who need it now. Saving people is more important than saving money. Our property must support our population.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

PINCHOT-BROWN FIGHT GOES BEFORE COURT TOMORROW

HEARING DUE IN LUZERNE BALLOTS

Friends, Hoping for Ruling For Ex-Governor, Reported Considering Counter Suit

A substantial number of political observers are predicting that the state Supreme Court's decision in the Luzerne County ballot dispute will give Gifford Pinchot the Republican nomination for governor.

Others contend that the letter of the law makes imperative a decision that will determine Francis Shunk Brown as the nominee.

The court will begin hearings in Philadelphia tomorrow on Brown's appeal to throw out most of the Luzerne County votes because ballots were perforated with serial numbers to distinguish official ballots from counterfeits.

MOTION TO QUASH

Pinchot has filed a motion to quash Brown's appeal on the allegation that the court has no power to correct, modify or reject the primary returns as certified to the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Adherents of the former governor point out that the court has precedent for deciding the issue on the intent of the voters who had no control over the printing of the ballots and accepted in good faith those handed to them by the official elections boards in Luzerne County.

Members of the political organizations of Philadelphia and Allegheny counties call attention to the language of the election law governing the case and declare the perforations are forbidden and the ballots therefore were illegal.

COUNTER ATTACK PLANNED

If the Supreme Court orders the voiding of the Luzerne County ballots, it will be asked, in all probability, by Pinchot supporters to take similar action regarding all ballots cast in Philadelphia, according to rumors current about a month ago.

Every ballot cast in Philadelphia at the last primary contained printed marks indicating the division, ward and legislative, state senatorial and congressional district to which the ballot applied. Those marks were adopted for the same purpose as the Luzerne County perforations.

If the court threw out the votes in both counties, Pinchot would be credited with the nomination, for Brown's plurality in Philadelphia was much greater than Pinchot's margin in Luzerne County.

wife and housekeeper, though. I can't cook very well now, but I can learn."

FAMILY'S TROUBLES

The family troubles reached a climax four months ago. Miss Schrader, attractive of face and figure, declared. She said:

"Father came home one day, dejected, and said, 'The baking company laid me off.' One hour later, I came home and said, 'I've been laid off.' We haven't had a nickel since. The lady who owns our house has carried us along. We had been borrowing right along, from my aunt and our furniture and in other ways, altogether about $2,000, and that is all gone.

"I want to pay it back. I have friends and went to them. Although they have money, they would not take it out of the bank. Father has had a defect in sight since his birth. The doctors say he will lose his sight gradually, in one eye within about a year, and that an operation may save it. We have no money to pay for it, much less to live on. There seemed nothing to do but make this offer and I told mother I was going to do it and she finally agreed."

The mother, sitting nearby, chimed in:

"It seemed silly to me at first but I thought she might as well go ahead."

The family moved here from the South 10 years ago and lived for a time on the North Side, moving later to the East End.

Now she wants to marry wealth to repay, she says, in some measure, the many sacrifices her parents have made for her.

would provide a complete airport. It was a gross breach of faith that the question on the airport ballot was so framed that it provided only the acquisition of land.

McGovern said that the Peoples' Bond Issue Association wrote to the various contractors who were to do work at the airport asking for contributions to help defray campaign expenses.

These contractors were told, McGovern read from a copy of the letter, that if the bond issue were passed there would be "lots of county work and you may be a beneficiary."

CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTORS

McGovern continued, reading from a prepared statement:

"It has long been rumored that contractors have been heavy campaign contributors and have been treated very well by the county. The Chamber of Commerce first suggested 400 acres for the site, but the majority commissioners have obligated themselves for 1,100."

Continuing his barrage of charges and accusations, the minority commissioner read from Department of Public Works records which stated in January of 1929 the airport grading and drainage was reported 90 per cent complete. A month later it was 95 per cent.

The refusal of his associates in giving him access to engineering data in connection with the job has hampered him in his investigations, McGovern said.

$3,500,000 "NEEDED"

If an A-1 rating is to be secured from the Commerce Department for the site, at least $3,500,000 additional will have to be raised, he said. The admitted obligations of the airport now total $2,140,000, for which $2,000,000 in bonds were authorized.

After the $140,000 deficit is made up the county will not have an airport, but a "mud puddle, usable in dry weather, perhaps, but in no way a completed project," McGovern told the meeting. He said:

"I would now like to call on Mr. G. Brooks Ross."

Director Brown rose and said he was the head of the department of public works and "would answer for him."

Armstrong interposed:

20,000 HONOR MARTYRS

AURIESVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Twenty thousand Catholics from the United States and Canada paid reverent honor to North America's first three Christian martyrs, Saints Isaac Joques, Rene Goupil and Jean de la Londe. These three men, slain in a ravine here by Mohawk and Iroquois Indians after suffering horrible tortures, were canonized by Pope Pius XI at Rome June 29.

The Pope was represented by the Rev. Pietro Fumasoni Biondi, who made his official visit to the scene of the martyrdom. It was the most colorful ceremony in the long history of the Auriesville shrine, known as the Shrine of the North American Martyrs. A group of Iroquois Indians, descendants of those who tortured the three missionaries, attended the ceremony.

RAINS LIGHTEN U. S. DROUGHT RELIEF TASK

Hoover Awaits Formation Of Governors' Committees In All Stricken States

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—A blanket of cooling rains brought natural relief to many of the drought-stricken states today while the Federal Government furthered its plans for human aid to blighted agriculture.

President Hoover, returning from a week-end at his Virginia vacation retreat, learned from federal authorities that state relief organizations were being formed in a dozen states. The federal government, he was told, will co-operate with all the state agencies in relieving distress throughout the drought-stricken area. A high official said:

"There are indications the drought is about ended. There is a gradual breaking-up of the drought all over the affected area. The nation can't expect relief everywhere at once. The most optimistic sign, though, is that the driest of the dry areas has been getting rain, a good slow heavy rain."

At the White House, the President conferred with various governmental authorities over Federal relief plans. He called in Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, to discuss the situation. While at one time it was feared the stricken area might need food, the authorities feel now that the danger of a food shortage has passed.

The next step in federal relief lies with the governors of the stricken states. At the conference here they agreed to name relief committees for their states. When these have been formed, the President will summon the bankers on each committee to a conference here with the Federal Farm Loan Board to discuss financial relief measures.

Some plan then will be formulated to provide cheap credits for farmers in the fall or next spring, especially where the drought wiped out the crops.

The church service was held according to the full Church of England ritual. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Geikie Cobb, rector of the ancient church. It included a mutual exchange of rings, but no promise to obey was elicited from the bride.

DIVORCE INVOLVED

Coming on the heels of the Lambeth conference report, which commented unfavorably on the marriage of divorced persons, the wedding of Field and Mrs. Coats aroused liveliest speculation as to whether any action might be taken.

It was reported the Bishop of London might reprimand Dr. Cobb, who was reprimanded in a similar case two years ago.

Field's first wife, the daughter of Mrs. Charles H. Marshall, of New York and London, obtained a divorce in Reno on August 4. Mrs. Coats' first husband, an officer of the Scots' Guards, died in 1927 from an illness resulting from World War wounds.

BRITISH BEAUTY

The new Mrs. Field is generally thought to be one of the most beautiful women in British society circles. She has enjoyed the close friendship of the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Gloucester and Prince George.

The couple will leave tonight for the Continent, where they will spend their honeymoon, part of their journey being made by air. Mr. Field's own airplane was shipped from the United States for this purpose.

They will return to the United States in three or four months, there to make their permanent home.

EIGHT D... IN MOTOR CRASHES

Four Children in One Family Killed as Father's Auto Hits Truck; On Vacation

A series of automobile accidents over the week-end brought a toll of eight dead and many injured today.

In an accident between Saegertown and Meadville four Glassport children were killed and their parents and a 2-year-old brother were injured.

The dead in the Saegertown accident were Mercedes Hahey, 11, and her sisters, Lettie, 8; Mildred, 4, and their brother, James Ronald, 3 months old, children of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Hahey.

In a line of four cars, Hahey was driving his automobile toward Edinboro. The Hahey car was said to have moved out of the line, crashing into a milk truck driven by Elmer L. Kidd, of Burton, O., Pittsburgh-bound.

MILK DRIVER CLEARED

The three girls were killed instantly and their baby brother died in Meadville Hospital about eight hours later. Their father is feared dying in the hospital. The condition of Mrs. Hahey and her son, Richard, 2, was regarded as less serious.

The Haheys were on a vacation trip. A coroner's investigation absolved Kidd of blame.

Mrs. William Hargrave, 36, of 247 Halket street, was killed yesterday when an automobile in which she was riding collided with another car on the Windber Hill near Pleasantville. She died in Windber Hospital.

Her husband, William Hargrave, also was injured in the accident.

PLUNGE OVER HILL

When an automobile in which they were riding plunged 150 feet down a hillside from Butler street, near Sixty-sixth street, George Soell, 25, of 5245 Stanton avenue, was killed and Horace Marshall, the driver, of Montpelier, Ind., injured.

Marshall, the dead man's brother-in-law, told police he lost control of the car when it skidded on the wet paving.

Charles Mazouri, 45, of Clairton, died last night after he was struck by an automobile near his home. Lawrence Allen, 24, of 68 Boundary street, Clairton, alleged driver of the car, was arrested.

Vincent Mannella, Jr., 2, and his sister, Mary Etta, 14, were injured when a machine driven by their mother, Mrs. Rosemary Mannella, of 3030 Shady avenue, struck a tree in Beechwood boulevard and turned over. The children were treated by a pearby physician. Mrs. Mannella was unhurt.

COLLISION

When automobiles driven by Margaret Carney, 23, of 4032 Hoosac street, and Henry Labelle, 24, of 619 Foreland street, collided at East and Foreland streets, three occupants of Miss Carney's machine were injured. They were William Carney, 75, father of Miss Carney; Helen Carney, 17, her sister, and Mrs. Mary Donahue, 75, of Cleveland.

Struck by an automobile at Apple and Lincoln avenues, Colindio Lombadri, 55, of 1106 Lincoln avenue, suffered a fracture of a leg and was taken to Pittsburgh Hospital. Police said they arrested George Reiger, 22, of 6910 Kedron street, as the driver of the machine.

Mitchell Baran, 22, of Rankin, had his left arm amputated in Braddock General Hospital, police said, shortly after it was crushed in a collision between his machine and a street car in Bell avenue, North Braddock, last night. Baran's arm, according to police, was protruding from his automobile when it side-swiped the car.

Edward R. Johnstone, 57, of 212 Fourth avenue, sustained a crushed leg in an auto accident last night near the South Fork road at Johnstown. His companion, David Cowan, 56, of Portage, former county chairman of the Labor party was killed. William Morgan, 34, also of Portage, was cut and bruised.

Ethel Barrymore in Negro Role, Daughter in Debut

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(Universal.)—For the first time in the glamorous stage history of the Drew-Barrymore family, one of its illustrious figures will essay a blackface role.

The beloved Ethel Barrymore will portray "Scarlet Sister Mary" at the opening of that play in Cleveland, Friday, August 29. The occasion will also mark the debut of Miss Barrymore's daughter, Ethel Colt, just 18. The young actress will play the role of Seraphine, mulatto child of the negress Mary.

There must come a time when the simple name of Ethel Colt has the same significance that attaches to her famous acting ancestors. So believes her mother, who is never referred to as Mrs. Russell Groswold Colt.

"Like mother, like daughter."

She was graduated a year ago from Notre Dame Convent, Moylan, Pa., where her mother and grandmother had been students. There followed a year at a fashionable school in Italy, but upon returning to New York two weeks ago, Miss Colt abandoned the plans for a fall debut in society, and begged to follow in her mother's footsteps.

"Scarlet Sister Mary" has been dramatized by Daniel Reed from the novel of Julia Peterkin.

Mrs. Yost Quits W. C. T. U. For Republican Job

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Mrs. Lenna Lowe Yost revealed today that her first act in preparing to assume active leadership in Republican women's activities was to resign as Washington representative of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Returning to the capital to complete the only preliminary left—getting settled in an apartment—the new director of women's activities of the Republican National Committee said she would be deeply immersed in her new work by mid-week.

"Of course, I resigned from the other," she said simply. "I got in touch with our president, Ella Alexander Boole, by long distance telephone the evening I agreed to take this."

Beyond this, she refrained from commenting on prohibition.

She viewed without enthusiasm reports that her selection amounted to a bid for dry support.

A. C. Walsh, manager of the apartment house, said:

"Owners of the property have asked $25,000 for the inch or so of ground upon which our building encroaches. At one time, we had sought to purchase the entire property and held an option with the understanding it was unrestricted. The deal fell through when we learned it was restricted property."

CHISEL AT NIGHT

Work on chiseling the wall began at noon Saturday. Continuing through the night, all day yesterday and last night while flood lights lit up the building, much progress was made up to the time the injunction was handed down by the court.

Lauer said:

"This work is a feeble attempt to forestall the damage suit brought by us to collect for the encroachment. We intend doing all in our power to stop it."

The Lauer duplex is located at 214-216 Craig street.

CAROL MAY TAKE MAGDA AS WIFE

Morganatic Marriage Rumor Comes With One of Wider Breach of King and Helen

VIENNA, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Rumanians in Vienna said today they understood King Carol, in the event he fails at reconciliation with his wife, Queen Helen, is planning a morganatic marriage with Mme. Magda Lupescu, red-haired woman for whom he once renounced his throne.

Their information was based upon the word of a foreign diplomat who recently passed through Vienna from Bucharest, who said he shared the convictions of the king's entourage that the breach between Carol and Helen was widening.

POINTS TO QUEEN'S PRIDE

Queen Helen, he asserted, would be too proud, not to say religious, to be content to lead a merely shadowy existence as queen while a rival held the affections of the king and really wielded the regal powers in the land.

According to the diplomat, Carol is temporizing on the matter of coronation and caused its postponement from October 15 to next spring because of misgivings as to how the nation, especially the army, will take the news that he is planning a morganatic marriage with Mme. Lupescu. The allegation that the postponement is dictated by economic conditions in the country is scouted, it being pointed out that the coronation is planned on the most simple scale.

HELEN PLANS JOURNEY

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Carol's wishes to be crowned a king with the pomp of the ancient monarchs of his country suffered another setback today.

Announcement was published that the ceremony, planned for October 15, had been definitely postponed until the spring of 1931.

At the same time it was announced Queen Helen, the Grecian princess wife and mother whom Carol forsook to live in Paris with Mme. Lupescu, would leave Bucharest on a long journey.

DELAY UNEXPLAINED

Only last week newspapers said a reconciliation finally had been effected between the king and Helen.

No reasons were assigned today for the delay in the coronation and for the renewed doubtful status of the reconciliation, other than that they were personal as well as political and economic.

Carol had proceeded with plans for his coronation, intending to make it Greek Catholic in character instead of Roman Catholic. The last two kings, Roman Catholics, both used the Roman service.

The pilots said they landed because of a break in the crankcase of the motor.

Williams Parsons, the manager, said they landed because of lack of financial returns.

The Greater St. Louis touched ground at Lambert-St. Louis Field at 8:39:30 a. m. (Pittsburgh time) yesterday after having spent 647 hours 28 minutes and 30 seconds cruising over the field.

The new record exceeds that of John and Kenneth Hunter by 93 hours and 47 minutes.

J. C. Madison, a justice of the peace, set bond at $500 each, which was made immediately.

Eberhardt said his arrest was part of "a political plot," and handed charges of conspiracy against the life of the Governor as "just a cheap bid for publicity."

SCREEN STAR BORED WITH HOLLYWOOD

Denies Rift With Fairbanks, Explaining That 'Trouble' Means Being Golf Widow

By FREDERIC A. CHASE,
International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18.—Mary Pickford's little dip into the sophisticated whirlpool of the New York stage next year will be a lark, she told International News Service today.

Many conjectures have been flying about the film colony as to why the queen has elected to desert her consort, Douglas Fairbanks, and her screen subjects for Broadway.

Mary indicated that her only trouble with Fairbanks, and the probable cause of all the recent talk about a separation, was that she has joined the millions of golf widows. She declared:

"Douglas' only ambition now is to break 70. I told him just this morning that I wished he would hurry up and make a 70, so we could live normally again.

CRAZY ABOUT GOLF

He's crazy about golf. That's why he went to England, and made people start gossiping about a divorce. But that is too silly to be dignified with any comment."

About her New York stage appearances, she had this to say:

"I won't stay long. Only about four weeks. New York is wonderful and terrible. It has a dangerous spell, if you stay too long. But a few weeks of it will be marvelously stimulating to me. New York is the artistic center of America.

"I need a vacation. Our trip around the world last winter wasn't a vacation for me, although it was for Douglas. All the fetes and banquets were too trying for me. I have been too long in Hollywood, and I'm tired of it."

LOOKS FORWARD TO IT

Miss Pickford said she was looking forward to the stage engagement as a part of living, just as the world tour was, but added:

"A whole season would be too much. In 1908, I played a whole season under contract, and I was so bored I often cried during performances. I don't have to go back to the stage. I am only doing it because it will be a lark."

She confessed being afraid of the ordeal of facing the Broadway critics. When the writer wished her success in her stage venture, she said she wished all the New York critics were doing that.

Mary Pickford has just had to do a heart-breaking thing, throw away an entire picture she spent months in making, at a cost of $250,000.

DID NOT INTEREST HER

She had to sacrifice this sum because when she saw the picture projected it didn't interest her and she asked:

"How could the picture interest an audience when it didn't interest me?"

It took a great deal of courage, the actress said, for her to discard "Secrets," with its heavy investment.

America's sweetheart is also an astute business woman. The fault she found with the picture was that it lacked action.

CONSIDERS 'KIKI' NEXT

She is considering for her next picture "Kiki," the vivacious and somewhat risque French comedy made a few years ago by Norma Talmadge. Miss Pickford can't decide if "Kiki" is too risque for her. She has a horror of doing anything that would shock people.

Talking pictures were bad for Hollywood, Mary believes, because they put up false gods for the producers to worship. Dialogue should be incidental, she insists, and be kept subordinate to action. She also believes sound films lost the world market for Hollywood.

OHIO PEN PLOT BEING SIFTED

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—State Fire Marshal Ray R. Gill back at his desk after an absence of several days, had before him today reports of the exhaustive investigation of the causes of the Easter Monday fire at Ohio penitentiary in which 320 convicts lost their lives.

Data contained in the report were compiled by Gill's deputy, Joseph Cleal, who has been engaged in an investigation since the fire. Cleal worked on the theory that the fire was of incendiary origin, though he has maintained strict secrecy. It was revealed however, that investigators were convinced the fire was the result of an organized plot to escape, initiated by a group of prisoners.

Despite the denial of officials many rumors have gained currency, chief among them being that the inquisitors now need only to learn the name of the man who actually struck the match that started the blaze to complete their case. Another was that the name of the convict who set off the fuse was known, but that officials are marking time until their case is complete.

The bird served as a dinner for the ruffled motorists.

RADIO'S DEBT TO NEWSPAPER

TORONTO, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The debt of radio broadcasting to the newspaper is beyond all computation, Dr. Lee De Forest, pioneer inventor, told the annual convention of the Institute of Radio Engineers which opened here today.

Decrying what he described as the use of broadcast for direct and blatant advertising, Dr. De Forest, delivering his address as president of the institute, stressed the part the daily press had played in popularizing broadcasting.

"Radio's debt to the newspaper for daily program notices, program reviews and for the generous radio sections is beyond all computation," he said. "I unquestionably it was this astonishing interest on the part of the press in broadcasting during its early, struggling days, 10 years ago, which alone enabled it to survive those crucial years until an awakened popular interest made radio self supporting. I sincerely feel that the debt will be partially repaid only when certain forms of advertising most obviously ill-suited for radio's medium go to the printed sheet."

Boy Barely Missed When Pole Topples

Jack Parsons, 10, of 1921 Chislett street, narrowly escaped injury today when a telephone pole rotted by age, fell into that street as the boy passed by.

Girl, 4, Falls Into Pen; Attacked By Sow

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Attacked by an enraged brood sow, Anna Doris Ritchie, 4, suffered serious injuries on her father's farm near Glen Easton.

The girl and her brother were playing on the roof of a shed and accidentally slid off, landing in the midst of a litter of pigs. Her brother succeeded in climbing over the enclosure railing, but the sow lunged at the girl, broke her arm and inflicted numerous flesh wounds.

The father, Edward Ritchie, summoned by the boy, beat off the animal and rescued his daughter. Her condition was reported as critical.

NEW MERGER PLAINTIFFS

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Executors of the estate of Myron C. Wick, Jr., today were substituted as co-plaintiffs in the suit to prevent the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and Bethlehem Steel Company in spite of an unexpected show of opposition by the defense.

Wick, who died a week ago Friday, was co-plaintiff in the case with the International Shares Corporation. Plaintiffs' counsel, as court resumed today after a week's adjournment, asked that the four executors of the estate be substituted in the case.

Newton D. Baker, of defense counsel, at once objected, arguing that Wick's interest in the case had ceased with his death, and that continuance of the suit by the executors was unwarranted.

The new plaintiffs are Mrs. Frances Wick, widow of the original co-plaintiff, Philip Wick; his brother, W. B. Todd, of New Jersey; Mrs. Wick's brother, and the Dollar Savings and Trust Company.

Hassell Tippit, auditor, who had testified for three days before Wick's death, resumed the stand today.

100 Men Dropped From City Payroll

About 100 men were laid off today by the Bureau of Highways and Sewers which found such action imperative to keep within the limit of its appropriation. If more money is forthcoming some of the men will be re-employed.

On account of the unemployment situation, the bureau has kept as many men as possible working on a five-day-a-week basis.

5,600 B. & O. Shop Workers Laid Off

Clare shops here 2,800 were affected and about the same number in the other shops of the system. The shopmen were laid off three weeks last month.

Gibraltar Tunnel Tests Successful

ANTI-DRY GAIN OF 29 SEEN IN HOUSE

Changing Sentiment of U. S. Shown in Swing Revealed In Survey by Curran

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—America's slowly but surely changing sentiment on prohibition was sharply indicated today by the assurance of a gain of 29 anti-prohibition seats in the House, with only half of the primaries and conventions held.

Buttressed by primary results and commitments from candidates, this was revealed in a survey by Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

The anti-prohibition gains in primaries already held total nine. In addition, seven new affirmative votes have been pledged for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment by sitting members of the House.

13 SWING OVER

And on top of that, 13 more members of the House have switched from a position of uncertainty or modification to outright repeal of the dry amendment, according to Curran. These members come from New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Illinois, Wisconsin and California.

In every one of the total of 29 districts either the sure winner is opposed to prohibition or both Democratic and Republican candidates are pledged to vote for repeal of the dry amendment.

"Twenty-five states have nominated candidates for the House of Representatives with an average gain for repeal of more than one seat to a state," Curran said. "Further gains may be looked for in the 23 primaries and state conventions still to be held. Thus far there is not a single change from wet to dry in existence or in prospect."

AID FROM DRY STATES

Most significant in Curran's list of anti-prohibition crusaders or converts are those from Virginia and Tennessee, two of the supposedly solidly dry Southern states, and others from Ohio, the home of the Anti-Saloon League, and Nebraska, where an out-and-out repealer won the Republican primary over a dry with eight years' service.

Probably the most striking change of sentiment was evidenced in the case of Representative Michaelson, dry sitting member of leaky trunk fame, who was defeated in the Republican primary recount by James G. Moreland, anti-prohibitionist.

5 AUSTIN AUTOS GO TO NEWSIES

Imagine 3,000 newsboys singing in chorus.

It happened yesterday afternoon at the Stanley Theater, where the Sun-Telegraph home delivery carrier boys and newsboys were given a "surprise" party. The program opened with Bernie Armstrong at the organ with 10 minutes of song, and this feature was the hit of the show. The volume and the quality of the voices and the familiarity of the youngsters with the song hits of the day was something that gave "Bernie" and the few adults in the theater a thrill.

Bernie Armstrong

It was a great afternoon for the Sun-Telegraph lassies. The management of Warner Brothers theaters had provided an exceptionally fine program, including all the important pictures on the current week's bill, an interesting newsreel as well as a rollicking funny comedy, and the feature talking picture, Jack Oakie in "The Sap From Syracuse" with Ginger Rogers.

The "surprise" was the announcement by B. W. Bloom, Circulation Director of the Sun-Telegraph, that this newspaper is to award five Austin Bantam Automobiles and $500 in gold to the home delivery boys and newsboys who make the best records in sales between today and October 30. Pittsburgh has been divided into five sections with one Austin Bantam and $100 in gold for each. When the show was over, the boys found the five Austin Bantams parked at the curb in front of the theater.

The unusual success of the party was largely due to the cooperation of Manager C. H. Bailes and C. J. Kenfield, who handles the money, but didn't get any yesterday for the Stanley Theater.

Lawyer to Oppose Glass in Election

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Opposition in the November election to Senator Carter Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, was announced by J. Cloyd Byars, of Arlington, Va., who will run as an "independent Democrat."

Byars, an attorney practicing in Washington, was active in the 1928 anti-Smith campaign in his state. Glass was unopposed in the Democratic primary.

LAWYERS PLAN CLOSER UNIT

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Closer organization of the nation's 50,000 lawyers will be one of the objectives of the fifteenth annual convention of the American Bar Association opening here today.

Discussion of the problem will be based on a report by a committee named at last year's session. The report records the increase in number, quality and activity of bar associations and urges that this energy be harnessed "to meet the needs and enlarge the usefulness of the whole profession." It asks also that bar leaders be polled as to their attitude toward affiliation with the national group and recommends a special committee to gather this information.

It adds:

"There is a growing feeling for some plan that will co-ordinate the bar associations of the country so that the American Bar Association may more fully represent and make effective the sentiment of the profession."

SHAW'S BATTLE ON LEAGUE PRAISED

Fight of Colorado Candidate To Keep U. S. Out of Court Winning Wide Acclaim

By WOOSTER TAYLOR,
Universal Service.

LAMAR, Col., Aug. 18. — With opposition to the League Court as his paramount theme, George H. Shaw carried his candidacy for the United States Senate into this far eastern corner of Colorado today.

The fame of his Denver speech had gone before him.

Although it was 5:30 in the morning when his train arrived at this little town of 4,500 residents in the heart of the melon and alfalfa belt, a delegation of leading men was at the depot to meet him.

Expressions of approbation on his outright stand against involving this nation in the intrigues and political machinations of the Old World, through League alliances, came from every quarter.

STAND WINS PRAISE

Dr. T. C. Knuckey, chief surgeon at the local hospital, was one of the first to congratulate him on taking a position "best calculated to preserve world peace." Former District Judge Granby Hillyer was another to warmly indorse his views. Cattlemen, merchants, growers, newspaper editors came forward to address their appreciation.

Among the latter was Lee Meadows, publisher of the Lamar Sparks, a former campaign manager for Senator Curtis in Kansas and reputedly one of the most astute political observers in the state. An Old Guard Republican publishing a Democratic weekly, his comment was remarkably frank.

"Shaw, seeking the Republican nomination, is on the opposite side of the fence from us," he said, "but I must admit that he has made decided inroads into the Phipps machine camp since his speech against the League Court.

"This action was well organized against him by the Phipps forces, which makes his break through the lines all the more significant."

LAUDED BY FOE

Similar expressions on Shaw's gaining strength came from men of varied interests, among them Herchel Horn, attorney;, C. O. Bowman, abstract company president; Raymond Shutts, auto dealer, and George Merrill, publisher. Even former Judge W. E. Fee, a recognized supporter of Shaw's opponent, said:

"I am much interested in Shaw's attitude on the League Court. Have you heard how Hodges (Shaw's opponent) stands on this issue? Personally I have always felt that we should keep out of that European mess, with its century-old antagonisms, jealousies and diplomatic scheming. I have always been a great admirer of Hiram Johnson's fearless attitude on the subject."

The bold attempt of Shaw, young Denver attorney whose only prior office was chairmanship of the Republican State Central Committee, to break through the Phipps-Hodges combine is presenting one of the most dramatic fights in the national congressional primaries.

Presence of two agents of the Nye committee in Denver, sent on from Washington at the behest of Senator Nye to investigate campaign expenditures, has added the final touch of their works.

OUTLINES PLATFORM

Shaw is campaign in his automobile and by train, his "retinue" consisting of one attendant, Harry Sullivan, an ex-service man.

"I am up against the biggest aggregation of moneyed interests in this state," he said in a recent speech. "They consider my campaign, with volunteer workers, nothing short of pure effrontery. But the people of Colorado want an independent, unshackled representative at Washington, one who will not bow to the international bankers; who will not allow them to bring in foreign products, such as South American beef or Cuban sugar, under a lowered tariff destructive to our chief industries—who will fight steadfastly to preserve the traditional policy laid down by Washington—that of non-interference in foreign affairs."

ABOUT HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM LIFE; REVIEW OF NEW TALK FILM

Dust Gathers on Ivories That Once Put Music Into Pictures

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1930, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18.—

Hollywood studios are cutting the songs out of pictures already made, and dust is gathering on the ivories in many a musical department.

An outstanding example of the extreme swing of the pendulum is the fact that "Fifty Million Frenchmen," one of the big musical hits on Broadway, will not contain a single song number when it is released as a Warner Brothers talkie. Another Warner film, "Sit Tight," which would have had 10 songs a year ago, will have only two.

The studios are realizing what many a fan felt long ago—that musical numbers halt the action. Where Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer had 50 people composing music a year ago, they have 25 today. Pathe, which once had six under contract, has none. Paramount has nine instead of 12. Universal has only one. Fox has only 13 song writers on its payroll. There has been less change at Warners and First National than at any other studios, but the composers here are no longer turning out songs for pictures. Their numbers are used by the five music publishing houses controlled by the company.

Oscar Straus

The quality of the musicians is much higher, however. Such men as Oscar Straus, Sigmund Romberg and Jerome Kern now are doing the talkie musicals. And they confidently predict that a single hit will start the pendulum on its return swing.

One of the current song hits, "Dancing With Tears in My Eyes" originally was in the First National picture "Dancing Sweeties." Studio officials decided that one number was enough for the film and retained "The Kiss Waltz." While popular, it never has approached the sales of "Dancing With Tears in My Eyes."

THEY TRY LAUGHING

A Los Angeles audience recently set a new precedent by trying to laugh a serious picture off the screen. For five minutes, it roared and jeered but the operator stuck it out. As far as I know this is the first instance of its kind ever recorded in this country.

They say in Hollywood that the coming Warner and First National shutdown will last till the first of the year. Pictures for the Warner theaters throughout the country are provided in the recent purchase of the Fox and R-K-O output by this company.

TIBBETT'S NEXT

After combing the industry from Amos to Zukor, I ran onto an interesting bit of information at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. A Southern story is now being prepared for Lawrence Tibbett by Bess Merdyth and Wells Root, two of the studios' ace-scenarists. It also is rumored that Clarence Brown will direct the singing star in this film. He is in daily conference with the two writers.

Lawrence Tibbett

M. G. M. has decided not to put Tibbett in another romantic costume role just at present. But as he is essentially a character singer they are trying to get away from a straight part.

SUCCESSOR TO "CHANG"

The man who collaborated in making "Chang" and "Grass" is now in a Sumatra jungle filming a story of the life of monkeys. He is Ernest Schoedsack, and he bears a commission from Paramount to make the film. Letters received in Hollywood tell of a fine automobile road cut through the jungle by the Dutch, and of swarms of monkeys swinging in the trees.

"Chang," as you probably recall, was a big hit as an animal film. "Grass" was not so successful, but won critical acclaim.

BEERY'S NEXT

The production of "Within the Law" now seems assured, and Wallace Beery is mentioned for an important role. Joan Crawford is to star. There's also talk of Frances Marion writing a special story for Beery, who has been hailed on every side for his talkie debut in "The Big House." The star now is appearing with Marie Dressler and Marjorie Rambeau in "Dark Star."

Fresh Air!

THE ORCHID LOOK AND LAKE PLACID SNOW IN THE HARRIS

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH.

"Back Pay" is the current talkie in the Harris. It is five reels of Corinne Griffith registering her best orchid look. She portrays a smalltown girl who becomes a bigtown gal. She trades love for luxury, only to find she can't get away with it.

The picture drags in the snow of Lake Placid, the war, the profiteers and the Armistice. It opens with a picnic and ends with work for the undertaker.

Grant Withers is the hero. And gosh—what they've done to poor Grant! They've made him into a blonde.

Heroine Corinne continually raves about his bushy locks and his blue eyes. But no one will rave about his acting.

Montagu Love is present as a sophisticated profiteer, who keeps a lovely lady in a lovely apartment. And we vote him the best player in the cast.

Victor Graff features the stage bill.

SNIPERS ACTIVE IN MILK STRIKE

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Snipers resumed operations in connection with the Kansas City milk strike, two truck drivers, hauling milk into the city, reporting they had been fired on.

Roscoe Akers, of Wolcott, Kan., was halted by four men in a motor car after a chase in which two shots were fired. His milk was dumped. A tire on a tank truck driven by Carl Christ, Kansas City, Kan., was punctured by a sniper concealed in the brush.

Approximately 1,500 members of the Milk Producers' Association, supplying pasteurization plants with the greater part of their milk, have been on strike for a week. They are seeking recognition of the "check off" system and other changes in the existing contract plan.

Vin Barnett Plays In Sheridan Film

Vin Barnett, brother of Luke Barnett, Pittsburgh's jester, is appearing on the Sheridan Square screen in the talkie, "Night Work," which features Eddie Quillan. The Barnett role is that of a comedy waiter. Incidentally, Pittsburgh can claim three persons in this film. Aside from Mr. Barnett, Mr. Quillan has lived here and Sally Starr, the picture's heroine, was born and educated here.

Two Die as Plane Falls and Burns

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Two men were burned to death when an airplane in which they were passengers fell at Lipone Corners, between here and Baltimore, and was destroyed by fire. The pilot was brought in a critical condition to the hospital here.

The dead men are James Rupert, of Jessups, Md., and Francis Beal, Dorsey Station, Md. The pilot is Marshall Talbott, 21.

Things I Never Knew Till Now

That "Mind your P's and Q's" originates from the old time tavern keepers, who reminded drinkers to remember their Pints and Quarts.

That German women wear the wedding ring on the other paw.

That the center of a mattress on a metal bed is said to be the safest place during an electrical storm.

That the first apartment house in America was erected in 1869 at 142 East 18th Street in New York City.

That if you keep your calves covered the rest of your body stays warm. That's why the Bavarians wear those calf hose.

That when the King of Siam was displeased by a courtier he made him take care of a white elephant. This quaint custom is supposed to account for the allusion: "To have a white elephant on your hands."

That the practice of calling the author before the curtain had its inception in the case of Voltaire.

That throwing an old shoe at the bride originated among the Hebrews. Part of the formality was for the groom to strike the bride with his shoe, signifying obedience on the part of the frau, and husband supremacy.

That the Ladies' Home Journal has the largest circ in London.

That it is no compliment to tell a man he is worth his weight in gold. For the average weight of a man would represent only $45,000, yielding, at 6 per cent, $2,700 a year.

That Queen Victoria once said that Gladstone always addressed her as if she were a public meeting.

That the "rake-off" in a poker game is called "the kitty" because a money box was once called "a kist" (meaning chest). In poker it became "the kit" and eventually "the kitty."

That the easiest game in which to cheat, according to authorities, is the game known as "Seven Up."

That playing cards were designed in 1392 by Jacques Grignonneur, court painter to Charles VI of France, who went nutty.

That Greece received its name from Italy and Italy received its name from Greece, according to Thorndike's History of Civilization.

That the reason a chicken jerks its head when it is running is so it will see better.

That you can walk to Paris, France, from New York City without using any kind of transportation device. (The Behring Strait, between Alaska and Siberia, is frozen over in winter).

That a sombrero is so called because the word is derived from the Spanish sombre, meaning shade.

That the first transatlantic radio voice broadcast was an accident: R. A. Fessenden, the experimenter, was trying contact with one point in Mass. from another and his signals were picked up in Yurrup.

That the word "nihilism" was coined by Turgenieff.

That Howe's Monthly has probably a greater percentage of rich men and celebrities among its readers than any other periodical in the world. Yet it loses money on every issue and has for 15 years.

That the collapsible opera hat is really known as The Gibus—named after its creator, a London hatter.

That the superstition about lighting three cigarets with the same match has its origin in the fact that in the old Russian funeral service three altar candles were lighted from one taper. It was considered an act of impiety to make any other lights in groups of threes, and therefore ill luck would follow such an act.

That the famous soprano, Catalini, had an ignorant husband who, when told that the piano was too high, called in a carpenter and had the legs cut off.

That you get perfumed butter in some Paris places.

That the unpleasant pee-yew! of Limburger cheese is due to specific fermentations induced during ripening.

That watermelon juice is the only fruit juice that won't ferment.

That the heaviest pearl in the world, now in the British Museum, weighs a little more than three ounces.

That it costs about $40 a year to educate a child.

That "A" is the first letter of all alphabets except the Old German or Runic, in which it comes fourth, and the Ethiopian alphabet doesn't consider it so hot, either, listing it thirteenth.

That you're not supposed to have manners if, when passing people to your theater seat, you do not face the stage.

That "a la mode" doesn't mean pie and ice cream.

That Thomas Jefferson introduced the finger bowl to America after being in Europe. So that's the guy?

That Tom Thumb was the professional name of Charles S. Stratton, who was born in Bridgeport, Conn., January 4, 1838. He ceased to grow in height at seven months and was 28 inches tall.

That Bernhardt's last words were: "Be a good boy, Maurice."

That the real name of Pocahontas was Matoaka.

And that most of the talking pictures in Germany are made in a little town christened, of all things, Babiesburg!

Barrymore Picture In Warner Saturday

Completely redecorated and with a new cooling system installed, the Warner will reopen Saturday. The opening attraction will be "Moby Dick," a talkie, starring John Barrymore. The supporting cast includes Joan Bennett, Lloyd Hughes, Tom O'Brien and Virginia Sale.

GENEVA, Aug. 18.—(Universal.)—Six Americans are now serving as officials of the League of Nations.

Two, Arthur Sweetser and Dr. Benjamin Gerig, are attached to the information section of the secretariat, which directs the League's publicity and propaganda.

Since the inception of the League, 28 other Americans have served in various official posts.

Among them were John D. Rockefeller III, Curtis Bok, the Rev. Raymond B. Fosdick, and Prof. Manley O. Hudson, Bemis professor of international law at Harvard University. Hudson was attached this summer to the American committee in Geneva of the League of Nations Association.

German Bus Dashes Into River, Eight Die

SPINDELMUEHLE, Silesia, Germany, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Eight persons were killed and six injured in an autobus accident here Sunday. An overland autobus carrying 13 passengers skidded on a wet road, smashed through a stone wall and plunged into the Elbe river.

Girl Dead as Auto Overturns on Road

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Betty Renshaw died in a hospital of injuries suffered Friday in the overturning of an automobile in which she was riding with Samuel Serbrase.

Robin Hood!

District Odd Fellows Will Hold Outing

Announcement has been made that the eighth district, Allegheny County Odd Fellows, outing will be held at Clairton Park Saturday. Annually it has been the custom of the eighth district to give a picnic to the orphans at the Pittsburgh home. A program of sports and entertainment has been arranged. TRIBUTE PAID IRISH HEROES

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Large crowds gathered on the lawn of the government buildings to honor the memory of the dead Free State leaders, President Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins and Kevin O'Higgins, at the annual commemoration ceremonies.

Burning Stomach Torture 3 Years

Misery Ends Quick with New Formula, Acidine

"For the last three years I have been bothered by food souring, causing a burning sensation that at times I felt like jumping in the river," says Mr. E. J. Moore of Cincinnati, Ohio. "I tried innumerable medicines, consulted a stomach specialist, but no relief. Finally I heard about Acidine and got some. No more burning or sour belching and vomiting, no headaches. Acidine is certainly a marvelous medicine."

Similar reports from all over rave about this amazing new formula that succeeds where others fail. The reason is that it is different from others. Contains an effective scientific digestant, Japtase, that promptly liquefies 800 times its own weight of starchy foods under proper conditions. Five other ingredients relieve burning acid, stop gas, soothe irritated stomach lining. Acidine contains this scientific combination to end acid stomach trouble.

Don't risk the dangerous results of acidity. Get Acidine from your druggist today. Take one dose and watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, fullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink and smoke if you take Acidine to stop resulting acidity. Money back if not delighted. Get Acidine today and begin to enjoy life once more.

SEEK TO BOOST BOOK SALES

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—An economist has been engaged to make a thorough survey of the book industry and to seek means for the widest possible distribution of books, the National Association of Book Publishers announced.

Edward S. Mills, president of the association, said O. H. Cheney, former superintendent on banking in New York state, had been employed to conduct the survey, financed by the book publishers, the Book Binders Association of America, and book dealers, paper manufacturers and allied interests.

Mills foresaw as a result of this research "a new period of growth and extended markets, and reduced costs through standardized manufacture."

No mention was made in the announcement as to whether recent drastic cuts in book prices by several publishers prompted the survey, and four houses who are after the dollar book trade characterized their venture as still an experiment.

Hers to Command

An army to set her table

When the housewife tells A & P her needs—by her purchases in its stores—an army of men, trained to obey her will, stands at command.

And because great numbers of women who like good things and good values trade in A & P stores, the order of one housewife becomes the order of many. A vast association of housewives, A & P's customers, thus grows out of a single aim—good food at least cost.

The whole A & P army is at her command, and the buying of all these housewives—massed to serve each—gives to all the pick of every crop, of every food.

Growers and manufacturers know that only their best products at fair prices will satisfy this large body of consumers. In return, these industries are assured of regular sale of their goods.

So the housewife who shops at A & P is certain of the best; while her steady, thrifty buying supports honest food industries in every part of the country.

In shopping to her own advantage, she is helping the food producer.

Youthful Frock in Colorful Print

Pattern 1960

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

Nothing is more delightful on warm afternoons than a dainty chiffon frock. The model presented today achieves distinction through its gracefully flared shoulder capes and skirt. Both are styled in pointed lines that are youthful and decidedly slenderizing.

Pattern 1960 may be fashioned of chiffon, georgette, voile or flat crepe printed or solid color. The pastels are delicious this season, particularly the rose, blue and yellow shades. Among the dark grounds, tobacco brown and black are quite the vogue, either plain or printed in tiny bright designs.

May be obtained only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4 yards of 40-inch material.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

Kiss Me Again
You Were Just Passing the Time With Me

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

An augmented orchestra will present the overture to "Tannhauser" in its entirety during tonight's General Motors Family Party over WCAE at 9:30 o'clock. "Tannhauser" which sums up the good and bad in man, is probably the most famed composition of Wagner.

In the Silence of the Night will be sung by William Fay, baritone, for KDKA listeners at 10 p. m. on the Stromberg-Carlson Hour.

Berna and Vera Deane, crooners, and George Kirk, baritone, will be in the NBC Spotlight, KDKA, at 10:30.

Towers for most of the radio stations in America are built in Pittsburgh, we learned the other day.

QUESTION A DAY.

Alex Rheidafer, Brentwood—What is the farthest a radio signal has been heard on standard wave?

A.—KDKA signals on 305.9 meters were heard in the 10 degree circle of the North Pole early this year. It looks like a record to us. When Capt. Wilkins goes under the North Pole by submarine this winter, KDKA hopes to contact the craft by direct ground waves. This will be quite a feat if successful.

G. Dare Fleck, the book-lover had very small space for cooking utensils and other necessaries, when he went vacationing recently. He packed his favorite authors first, then hauled aboard the camping equipment.

* * *

Pat Kelly, chief of NBC announcers, has been in three shipwrecks—but he does not wriggle over flagpoles.

DING! DING!

Allan Machesney is working on a trolley system whereby microphones may be moved to any part of the WCAE studio. It has many wires, intersections, red lights and all that, but will greatly facilitate the movement of the microphone during a split-up program. When the cornet player is scheduled for a solo—for instance—it won't be much trouble to shift the mike onto the car line winding up at his chair.

The next best thing to Al's idea is the microphone used at NBC. It is mounted on a rubber hose which is bent in the direction of the featured instrument or speaker.

TODAY'S TID BIT:

IRONER SPECIALS
APEX ELECTRIC
CABINET IRONER

Chair Folded Becomes Handsome Porcelain Topped Table

$149

12 MONTHS TO PAY

No longer need you approach ironing day with dread, or stand and push an iron until arm and back, leg and foot muscles cry out in protest.

The Apex Electric Ironer does the work—beautifully and without drudgery.

Plain and fancy things—light and heavy materials—small, dainty articles—sheets and pillow cases—table linen—shirts—children's dresses—ruffled curtains—handkerchiefs—all are quickly ironed as if by magic.

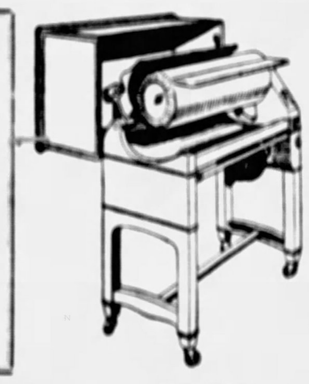
Its Operation Is Simplicity Itself

Roll the Apex to a bright, sunny spot, plug into a convenient electric outlet, turn on the switch and in a few minutes you are ready to iron.

Seating yourself, with both hands free to smooth out the various articles upon the roll, you gently press a convenient knee control, and the machine starts. Press the control again and it stops.

$10 DOWN PAYMENT 12 MONTHS TO PAY BALANCE



ROTAREX ELECTRIC FOLDING IRONER

Occupies Only Small Floor Space When Folded

This type of ironer is popular with those who have limited floor space. It folds up when not in use and can be put away in a small closet or any out of the way space.

The Apex Folding Ironer is so delicately balanced that the slightest touch of the hand will move it into working position where it automatically locks until released to be folded into upright position and put away.

An unusual feature is the vitreous enamel cast iron shoe. This insures a beautifully polished surface coming in contact with your clothes—a surface which will resist moisture and wear, one which will not discolor, and one that may be cleaned of starch and dust with a damp cloth.

It operates with the same simple knee control as does the Apex Cabinet Ironer and turns out the same beautiful quality.

CLAIMS SHOUSE SLURS HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—A charge that Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National Executive Committee, has attempted to "slander and malign" President Hoover was made in a statement by Representative Wood, of Indiana, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee.

Wood said criticism and misrepresentation "are about the easiest and cheapest things in which political spokesmen can indulge," adding that Shouse "has become a past master at the art of both, but more particularly at that of misrepresentation."

"The plain truth is," he asserted, "that Mr. Shouse and his cohorts have one purpose only, to assail, to slander and to malign the President of the United States and to attempt to block his every effort to carry forward the great tasks to which he has set his hand."

Wood charged that Shouse's statements have "been crowded with inaccuracies and bald misstatements, showing that he either has failed to inform himself of the facts or chosen to ignore them in the hope of gaining some temporary partisan advantage."

CHURCH MEET HITS DRY LAW

BALTIMORE, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—German-American Catholics, gathered in convention here, heard their clerical leaders praise Gov. Ritchie as presidential timber, condemn prohibition and declare that the church must be kept out of politics.

American Kills 2 Bulls; Costume Draws Jeers

MADRID, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Sidney Franklin, of Brooklyn, Spain's American matador, returned to the ring Sunday after an absence of two months, only to receive a razzing from the fans because of the color of his costume.

Franklin killed two bulls, but the ringsiders found his work with the cape hasty and conservative and his swordplay below standard, though he used only one thrust for each animal.

What bothered even Franklin's followers was a salmon pink suit embroidered with white lacings in which the American chose to make his reappearance.

R-100 DAMAGED, REPAIRS START

CARDINGTON, England, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The British dirigible R-100, just back from a trip to Canada, was taken from her mooring mast to the shed where she will be overhauled thoroughly.

When I had taken two bottles I felt better so I kept on. My little daughter was born when I had been married twelve years. Even my doctor said, 'It's wonderful stuff.' FATHER AND SON SHOT BY DRYS

COLUMBUS, Ga., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Fred Desmuke, of Macon, Ga., deputy federal prohibition administrator for the middle district of Georgia, was here today investigating the shooting of Earl McCollough and his father, Van McCollough, in a pistol battle with dry officers at Alvaton, Ga.

Desmuke said the officers went to the McCollough home to serve a warrant after liquor had been sold there several days ago to a dry agent.

One of the raiders, W. K. Johnston, Jr., is under indictment on a murder charge in connection with the slaying of Ray Rodgers, alleged liquor runner. Rodgers was slain, Johnston said, when he and Rodgers and a girl companion of Rodgers scuffled over a pistol after the officer had halted Rodgers' car. Johnston is under bond and his case is pending in federal court.

Do not harbor any doubt about the merits of Konjola, the really different medicine for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness.

JOHN E. GRISER.

Consider for a moment, the case of Mr. John E. Griser, 1618 Forsythe street, Pittsburgh. There are many similar cases about which the Konjola Man at the Dow drug store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, can tell you. See him there today. Now read the experience of Mr. Griser:

"For a year past I suffered at different times with neuritis. I was also bothered with constipation. I am not a chronic medicine taker and have taken very little medicine of any kind. I have taken three bottles of Konjola and I feel that it is one medicine that will really do what they say it will do. I am still using it and am going to use it as long as it continues to help me. I have a better appetite and feel much better in every way. I am glad to recommend Konjola to anyone needing a medicine of this kind."

There are a great many men and women who feel, as does Mr. Griser, that Konjola is worth a real trial. Six to eight bottles is the recommended treatment in the average case.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow drug store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily. Konjola is sold also at all Dow drug stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

VOTING MACHINE AWARD PROTESTED

Policeman Slays Wife, Shoots Self

Babcock Blvd. And Curves It Cuts Out

RIVAL FIRM SAYS RULES VIOLATED

Points out Device Ordered By Commissioners Wasn't Demonstrated as Asked

Charging that the Poole Engineering Company failed to abide by specifications in the contract for furnishing 1,000 voting machines to Allegheny County, the Automatic Voting Machine Corporation has protested to the county commissioners against the awarding of the contract to the Poole concern. The Automatic Voting Machine Corporation was the only other bidder.

On Friday the commissioners awarded a contract to the Poole concern for 1,000 machines, 300 of which are to be delivered by October 15. The bid of the Poole Company was at a cost of $1,126 for each machine while the Automatic Company bid $1,154.

Questioned on possible action to be taken by the County Commissioners due to the protest, Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong today declared the awarding of the contract was a closed matter.

The charges are made in a letter sent to the commissioners by Russell F. Griffen, vice president of the Automatic Company. He charges that paragraph 13 of the specifications is one of the things the Poole people were permitted to ignore.

STATEMENT REQUIRED

Paragraph 13 reads:

"Contractor shall submit a certified statement showing where the machine when he proposes furnishing under this contract has been in actual satisfactory service and the number of years it has been in such service."

The letter also cites paragraph No. 20 of the contract, claiming the Poole Company did not abide by this specification. Paragraph 20 reads:

"No proposal from any bidder shall be considered unless an actual demonstration of a serviceable machine, built to meet the requirements of these specifications, shall be made to the county commissioners of Allegheny County, at their office in Pittsburgh, prior to date of filing proposal."

EXPRESSES DOUBT

Griffen in his letter said he did not believe the Poole Engineering Company could comply with paragraph 13. He writes:

"It is our contention that our competitor has not furnished for your inspection a machine of the exact size and type as will be required by the county, and we believe you are entitled to see at least a sample of the product in which you intend to invest a large amount of money. As stated to you yesterday at your hearing, we have had an exhibition in your office a machine of the exact size and type as required by your specifications."

The letter further points out that when the bids were first advertised the Automatic concern posted a bid check of $100,000 and

E. PITTSBURGH TRAGEDY LAID TO WORRIES

Officer, Near Death From Wound, Said to Have Been Despondent Over Illness

Despondency over ill health and domestic worries today were believed by police to have prompted Michael Horvarth, 49, an East Pittsburgh policeman, to kill his wife and make an attempt on his own life in their home last night.

The tragedy occurred in the kitchen of their home at 528 Grandview avenue, East Pittsburgh, several hours after they had returned from a picnic, East Pittsburgh police said. The body of the wife, Marie, 46, with a bullet in her head, was found on the floor. Beside lay her husband with a revolver at his side and a bullet wound in his head.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

Two bullets imbedded in the kitchen wall indicated, police believed, that Horvath had fired four times. Horvath was unconscious when Lieut. David Bennett and Patrolmen Sam Whitman, Edward Crowley and William Boyle entered the kitchen in response to a call from the wounded man's eldest son, Fred, 19.

Five of the Horvath children, including Fred, were upstairs when they heard the shots from their father's revolver. The youngest of the children is 4.

Eight years ago, two years before he became a member of the borough police force, Horvath was injured in an accident in a mill, his fellow officers said. A hot bar pierced his abdomen and he had been ailing since. He had been off duty the last four weeks due to the illness, it was reported.

TALKED TO PATROLMAN

Patrolman Boyle said he chatted with Horvath in front of the latter's home about 9 p. m., two hours before the shooting. Horvath told of his plans of going to a stomach specialist in hopes of a cure, according to Boyle.

The construction of Ardmore boulevard, which runs in the rear of Horvath's house, worried him, police declared. Thirty-five feet of his back yard was to be taken for the boulevard job, police said they understood.

The body of the wife was taken to an undertaking establishment. Horvath was taken to the Braddock General Hospital, where his condition today was regarded as critical.

BOY CYCLISTS MISS RECORD

Almost at their goal of 14 days and nights of continuous pedaling, Morningside's marathon bicycle riders yesterday afternoon were forced to quit.

The three boys, Al Slutzky, 13, of 5435 Stanton avenue; Danny Auslander, 13, of 817 Highview street, and Irwin Pittler, 12, of 1021 Jancey street, starting Wednesday morning, August 6, and riding in four-hour relays on the same bicycle, had completed 294 hours. They fell short of their mark by only 42 hours.

Danny Auslander contracted a heavy cold and was ordered to bed Friday night. Al and Irwin continued the grind without their pal that night, all day Saturday, and Saturday night. Al rode from 5 o'clock yesterday morning until 3 in the afternoon, when he finally gave up.

The four tree sitters of Brushton have completed 814 hours in the air. They intend to stay in the trees in the rear of 631 Sickles street until schol begins. They are Robert, James and Lawrence Gravely, and their cousin, Sammy King.

Sent Out to Arrest One, Officer Brings in Trio

Patrolman Thomas Vuletich, sent out to get one man, came back with three in the "Black Maria."

It all happened when Clarence Dare, 32, of 2600 Spring Garden avenue, boasted once too often that he was the neighborhood strong man and could like any three ordinary fellows with one hand tied behind his back. The neighbors finally complained to the police and Vuletich was sent to bring Dare in.

He found Dare in the home of Fred Reis, 38, of 3113 Spring Garden avenue, but as he was about to make the capture he spied a quantity of moonshine so Reis accompanied Vuletich back to the station.

As they were entering the wagon a third man, Andrew Kohler, 74, of 3264 Spring Garden avenue, who seemed to be under the influence of liquor, pleaded with Vuletich to be taken along. In the patrol wagon he raised a rumpus and was booked for disorderly conduct instead of drunkenness.

At the hearing before Magistrate J. J. Sweeney, Dare and Kohler were discharged, but Reis was fined $50 and given 30 days in jail.

There is a lot of false value attached to stage presence, now that we're on the sub-

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

If you want to read the most beautiful thing that's been written in years, it is not a lie, it's not an editorial, it's a will. You wouldn't think that so much love for all mankind could be so practically expressed as it is in the will of Ex-Senator Phelan, of Frisco. Most of you will only read that he left Helen Wills $20,000, but get a paper with a copy of the entire will, and you will say, "Why there is a man that wanted to do some good." For pure charity and tolerance toward all races and creeds it's a masterpiece. It makes me feel ashamed that I ever knocked a Senator.

Accused of Mulcting Work Seekers on Promise of Employment in Brooklyn

City Detective Joseph Linden today was expected to return from Baltimore with John H. Bell, alleged job swindler, who is scheduled to face 14 charges of larceny and obtaining money under false pretenses.

Bell, who, detectives say, is known under the names of William Dawson and Charles Billings, fraudulently represented himself as attached to a Brooklyn corporation, saying he intended to employ a large number of men, it is declared. Newspaper advertisements brought scores of applicants.

From these, detectives allege, Bell collected a fee and a deposit for railroad fare. The appointments were so arranged that none of the applicants would meet when they reached the Pittsburgher Hotel where Bell had been staying. Some of them had quit their positions on Bell's inducement, it is said.

The victims discovered they were swindled when they met at the Pennsylvania Station to meet Bell, who failed to show up. Several weeks later he was arrested in Baltimore.

Trouble Ensues as Machine Smashes Into Parked Cars And Hits Tree; One Hurt

Three men involved in a near-riot in the East End yesterday following an automobile crash, were fined $25 or 30 days in jail today at hearings before Magistrate Charles Papale in East End Police Court.

Frank Needham, 23, of 112 Fifty-seventh street, driver of a machine which crashed into two parked automobiles and a tree, was charged with reckless driving. His companions, Carl Brinkhoff, 23, of 6805 Duffield street, and Clifford Graitze, 27, of 1740 Antietam street, were arraigned on disorderly conduct charges.

POLICE STOP FIGHT

An argument and fight which followed the crash was broken up by police, who arrested the driver and his two companions.

Needham's machine, police said, collided with the automobiles of R. J. McNamara and J. V. Geyer, which were parked on Jancey street. The machine then crashed into a tree in front of 1701 Jancey street.

A group of neighbors congregated and a fight started, according to police when the occupants engaged in an argument.

YOUTH INJURED

Arriving to disperse the crowd, police found John Wennogle, 19, of 4702 Stanton avenue, had been thrown through a windshield and injured. He was taken to the Pittsburgh Hospital, where he is reported suffering from face lacerations and an injured hip. Nine different persons sent in riot calls to the police station when the fracas took place.

Occupants of the wrecked car were injured slightly.

The Camera Question Box

Today's question:—The U. S. Department of Labor advises a 10-minute rest period in each four hours for employed women, to protect health and efficiency. Do you believe it would prove beneficial?

MISS VERA OBERMEIER, Schoolgirl, Mt. Oliver:—Yes, I do, that is for the women who have steady work to do. The short rest gives them a chance to start in fresh again.

Miss Obermeier

MISS G. LAZAROW, South Hills:—Yes, I think it would. Anyone needs a short rest now and then while working. The work is of a much better quality if that program is followed.

Miss Lazarow

MRS. M. BASKIN, Housewife, North Side:—I think that rest periods are always beneficial for people who are doing any kind of continuous work. They are decidedly better for the health than working without a break.

Mrs. Baskin

MISS ETHELEGER, Student, Aliquippa:—I certainly do. A woman can apply herself to her work with so much more attention and real interest in what she's doing if she rests a few times during the day.

Miss Eger

MISS ROSE RECHT, Student, Aliquippa:—Why, of course. Anyone can see how much more valuable an employe would be who rested for a few minutes and then started to work again.

Miss Recht

MISS JANET SCHOSS, Bookkeeper, Uptown:—Yes, I do. An employe's efficiency is increased and what is more important, her health is receiving better attention under such a system.

BABSON SEES TRADE PICKUP

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 18.—(INS.)—Business leaders of the Middle West today were regarding with optimism the prediction of a general business improvement made by Roger W. Babson, eminent economist.

Babson said business in general throughout the Middle Western States will show marked improvement during the last quarter of 1930. The economist also predicted a healthier agricultural situation in the central area.

This was Babson's first public announcement on the business outlook since his forecast of approaching depression last November. He said:

"The farmer is practically flat on his back out here and conditions are as bad right now as they can get."

European countries have become worried and are now placing orders after a long buying strike, he said.

AGED MAN DIES AT REUNION

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 18.—Completing a motor trip of several hundred miles just in time to attend a reunion in the Windy Gap Presbyterian Church at West Findley, Prof. James Clinton Burns, 80, of Macomb, Ill., collapsed and died a few minutes before he was to be called upon to make an address. A heart attack is given as the cause of death.

Prof. Burns, a native of Greene County, arrived here yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, a few minutes before he was to make an address on the history of the Carroll family at the reunion of the Carroll families being held in the church. He entered the auditorium, sat down near the pulpit and collapsed.

Prof. Burns had been a teacher at the Illinois State Teachers College for 52 years.

ELECTRIC P. R. R. YEARS HENCE

Electrification of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the Pittsburgh district will not take place for many years, it was said today at the office of E. W. Smith, vice president of the road.

Commenting on reports that plans had been made to electrify from Altoona west to points beyond Pittsburgh, officials said such a step had been under consideration several times in recent years, but that the high cost and traffic conditions made such action unlikely for a long period.

At present the road is making extensive electrical improvements in the vicinity of Philadelphia and Baltimore and on the main line through New Jersey. Electrification to Harrisburg will be next. The improvements will not be extended to this district until work on the eastern lines has been completed. This will take at least five years.

It isn't too late to enter your baby. The entries do not close until tomorrow night. Entry blanks may be procured without cost at any Kroger store.

COSTE DELAYS HOP FOR U. S.

LE BOURGET FIELD, Paris, Aug. 18.—(Universal.)—Capt. Dieudonne Coste, French airman, last night announced his intended take-off for America today will be postponed at least until tomorrow.

Coste, who today flew his famous plane, the Question Mark, from Villacoublay to this field in preparation for the start of his long-delayed trans-Atlantic flight, ordered the plane placed in a hangar, explaining reports of bad weather over the Atlantic were responsible for the postponement.

On landing here he had announced that he would start at dawn.

NEW RULES AID TO INVESTORS

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(Universal.)—Public interest is concentrated on the new stock exchange regulations. Following a six months' investigation, a committee of inquiry has reported in favor of imposing protective restrictions on the investor.

Since the Hatry crash the public's wariness of many offerings has forced the exchange to this housecleaning, which is expected to react in terms of renewed public confidence.

The public's policy of safety first is reflected in the continued influx of buying money for gilt edges and further improvement of British funds with a remarkable recovery of Australians.

Adverse rumors, plus the forced liquidation in several directions have further depressed the industrials. Rumors of cut tire prices led to liquidation of Dunlops, while dividend fears provoked a serious fall in all Celanese stocks. The reported Ford agreement with Italian producers has tilted Fords appreciably. Raw rubber reached a new low record of 4⅝.

AFRIDI TRIBES FLEE TO HILLS

PESHAWAR, India, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Chastened by a daily rain of bombs from British planes, raiding Afridi tribesmen today were reported in full retreat to the hills of the northwest frontier, and the menacing situation here was considered relieved.

Despite the decreased tension, martial law regulations proclaimed in the city were officially published Sunday. The Haji of Turangzai, a consistent border trouble maker, is reported to be still trying to persuade the powerful Mohmands to take the field against the British.

All Afridi invaders have disappeared from the cave area at the junction of the Bara valley and the Khajuri plain, and the plain itself was reliably reported to have been completely evacuated. Other districts seemed likewise freed of the tribesmen.

CHICAGO GRAFT CHARGE SIFTED

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The charge that more than $500,000 was paid to various persons in connection with the sale of 905 garbage wagon trailers to the city of Chicago by the Highway Trailer Company, of Edgerton, Wis., is contained in a private investigator's suit for compensation.

The investigator, Robert M. Telfer, Jr., made the charge in his suit for $100,000 filed in Federal Court against the Fruehauf Trailer Company, of Detroit, for salary and expenses. He said the Fruehauf Company employed him to investigate methods used by the Highway Trailer Company.

The trailers, bought from 1922 to 1928, cost Chicago $1,495,775, or $1,595 apiece, the bill asserts.

EDGERTON, Wis., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—J. A. McIntosh, treasurer of the Highway Trailer Company, of Edgerton, today denied the assertion of a private investigator in a suit filed in Chicago that his firm paid out $500,000 through fake sales agencies in connection with the sale of garbage trailers to the city of Chicago.

SUICIDE'S NOTE BLAMES LACK OF WORK

'Broke, Hungry,' Johnstown Man Ends Life in Plunge From Smithfield St. Span

River police, under Capt. Charles Snyder, yesterday recovered the body of Charles E. Ranson, who leaped from the Smithfield Street Bridge into the Monongahela River shortly after midnight Saturday. A farewell note left on the bridge told that the lack of work and hunger had driven him to suicide, and instructed the police to turn his body over to the Allegheny County home at Woodville for dissection. Patrolmen Henry Reddy, Benjamin Nowack, M. S. Maules and James Raczanski assisted in the recovery.

Ranson, a roomer at 504 Arch street, North Side, in a two-page note revealed that his wife, Mrs. Fannie Ranson, resided at 1002 Confer street, Johnstown. He made the fatal leap before a passerby could forestall the act.

The suicide appeared on the almost deserted bridge early yesterday and as Carl A. Freyberger, of 612 Eureka street, was within 10 feet of him, threw his hat containing the note and eyeglasses at Freyberger's feet. The man sprang over the rail before Freyberger could reach him.

The note, turned over to police, revealed the action had been premeditated. Citing he was "broke" and sick, and that he was selecting the bridge for his death leap, the man willed his body to the Allegheny County Home, Woodville, in gratitude for the kindness shown by Dr. McCracken, home superintendent. He willed his personal belongings to his landlady, Mrs. Ralph Heilman, who was to be notified, along with his wife and M. F. Sullivan, of Cleveland.

VOTE MACHINE AWARD FOUGHT

made no protest when the bids were rejected because of an alleged closed specification which the Automatic people contend is open.

RECALLS BABCOCK STAND

The letter says 'these matters are pointed out because Commissioner E. V. Babcock in his motion to award the contract to the low bidder emphasized the point that the Automatic concern had not furnished a list of stockholders as required by the specifications. The letter then reminds the commissioners that Griffen told them at the hearing that his company's stock was listed on the New York curb market and that registered stockholders change daily.

Griffen said yesterday that his company was prepared to go the limit to protect its interests. He declined to say whether court action might be taken.

MACHINES OUT OF USE

At the hearing Friday it was admitted by officials of the Poole concern that they had not built any machines for use to date. Questioned further, they admitted they had become interested in the building of the American voting machine about a year ago. It also was brought out that the American machine had been used in New England 12 years ago but since had been abandoned. There are no American machines in use anywhere in the country today, it was said.

The awarding of the contract to the Poole Company was termed "a most unbusinesslike procedure" by the Citizens' Committee of which Senator Frank J. Harris is chairman. Representatives of the committee were present at the hearing Friday and read an extended report of investigations of both bidders and recommended that the commissioners give the contract to the Automatic Company.

BLACK WINS COLOR VICTORY AT THE FASHIONABLE RACES

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, AUG. 18. — Black has taken the hurdles on the color chart with many new shades in high approval, and won a spectacular victory at the recent fashionable racing events here. With a notable number of smart women staking their sartorial success on these occasions on black, black combined with white, and a newly innovated color theme, black with brown accessories, the black costume has been an outstanding favorite.

Other color entrants that have been accorded recognition are the many shades of green and tones of brown. Two new shades of green have recently made their appearance and, from present indications, are expected to attain considerable importance in the coming mode. They have probably already found their way to your side of the Atlantic and we recommend that you consider "Buddha" and "Gypsy" if you are a wearer of the green.

RICHLY DESERVING of every well dressed woman's attention at present is velvet. There is a subtle allure about the velvet gown that seems to aptly express the affectionate regard in which style dictators hold femininity at present.

A MODEL WHICH WON sartorial laurels at the races during the Grande Semaine and one that illustrates the irresistible chiffon of the lately created velvet gowns is shown today. Of black, it attains a quaint modernity by the manner in which cream lace is used as a yoke and as decoration for the unusual puff sleeves. Another feature of current interest is that, despite the fact that the sleeves are long, gloves of almost elbow length are worn. This wearing of long gloves over long sleeves is seen here now and it is easy to assume that gloves and sleeves will not be rivals this coming season.

ANOTHER MODEL which serves to illustrate the style value of black and cream lace is the model of black marquisette from Worth. Here the sleeves are short and the lace yoke is repeated in the back. Worn with a large black rough straw hat, this costume, detailed to the latest mode is admirably adapted to the last warm days of the season.

Bees Boost Yield Of Cherries, Apples

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The busy bee has been increasing the cherry and apple crops, Dr. E. L. Sechrist, who has been touring for the Department of Agriculture, has found such things as an apple crop increased from 1,400 bushels to 6,000, and 44 pounds of cherries instead of four pounds obtained from one tree. A hive is placed under trees. The bees pollinate sterile trees and those that have small yields.

THE ROBOT SINGS OF LOVE

THE ROBOT (singing):
"O, soul of my soul, I love thee---"

BUT the Robot has no soul. And having no soul It cannot love. Small wonder the lady spurns Its suit.

Now, if the Robot cuts a ridiculous figure beneath a lady's balcony, why expect IT to thrill intelligent theatre goers in the character of Canned Music?

Music is an emotional art. By means of it feeling may be translated into all tongues. The Robot, having no capacity for feeling, cannot produce music in a true sense.

'FIXER' CALLED IN GANG QUIZ

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(INS)—The carefully kept "book of bribes" left by Jack Zuta, slain vice lord and gang leader, threatened today to bring to light more startling evidence of huge payments made by gang interests to obtain protection from police, public officials and politicians.

State's attorney's investigators, under the direction of Pat Roche, were concentrating on two notations in Zuta's ledgers crediting a mysterious "M. K." with dividends amounting to $108,469.

These sums have been traced to a "secret eight" clique of politicians, according to Roche, who were paid the protection money to "M. K." According to the state's attorney's office "M. K." has been identified as Matt Kolb, alleged fixer. Kolb was to be summoned for questioning today. Kolb was recognized as the czar and dictator of the north and northwest sections of Cook County, according to Roche.

The Cook County Grand Jury was to reconvene today, but it was uncertain whether the evidence contained in the slain gang leader's records would be presented.

100 SWIM FANS GET ICY BATH

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 18.—(AP)—More than 100 persons were plunged into the icy waters of Puget Sound yesterday when a gangplank connecting a pavilion with a float gave way. All were rescued.

The crowd had gathered to watch the finish of an endurance swim from Vashon Island to the Point Defiance pavilion, by Miss Helen Durell. She rescued two of the spectators.

Investigate Threats In Joyce Death Case

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The story of Mrs. John T. Joyce that she received several anonymous telephone calls the night before her husband, a state senator, died mysteriously, sent police on a search today for known enemies of the lawmaker.

Mrs. Joyce said the calls started Friday afternoon and lasted until that evening. She was first warned that the Senator was to be shot and later was told he had been shot three times.

Blackheads, Pores —how Awful!

Now don't worry over large pores, unsightly blackheads, wrinkles and perspiration that makes the skin shiny and oily. Out in Hollywood they have the recipe for an amazing lotion that quickly corrects these flaws and makes the skin beautiful. It succeeds even when the finest special soaps and creams have failed.

The very minute you put it on the face and neck it gets down deep into the skin and cleans out the dirt that solidifies in the pores and causes blackheads. Gently it tightens up the skin, erases wrinkles and closes the pores.

Soon, very soon, this lotion makes the skin smooth, good-looking and thereafter keeps it youthfully fresh. You'll notice, too, that oiliness has disappeared and perspiration doesn't bother you any more.

Get 3 ounces of Orchard White from any druggist, mix it with the juice of 2 lemons. This gives you a full quarter-pint of the finest preparation you have ever used. Try it.

Note: In the summer this lotion keeps the skin soft, free from freckles and guards against that leathery look caused by wind and sun.

Raquel Accepts Apology From Bertie Adams

CHAPTER XXIX

When Raquel returned to the suite after her hasty disposal of the intruder, Greta had come in.

"Holy Pat, old thing, you look as if you had been seeing ghosts," said Greta.

Raquel felt Greta had purposely refrained from inquiring where the ghosts might have been. Did Greta suspect her of having kept a rendezvous? She flushed and—

"I have been seeing ghosts almost ever since I heard someone in here. I came out and found Bertie Adams there by the table."

Pat fixed Greta admonishingly. This unfortunate member of the cavalier sex had apparently Greta was given to gales of laughter.

"He must be feeble about you to take a chance like that," said Greta. "How did you get rid of him?"

"He said he couldn't find his cabin. I took him to Alphonse."

"Alphonse! You took him to Alphonse! Real distress chased away Greta's mirth. "Oh, my heavens, how were you to know? What ever possessed you to do a thing like that?"

Alphonse Angry

"I had to do something."

Alphonse stood there. His long tapering fingers working. His face a distorted mass behind which raged the tempest of his wrath.

"How did he come here that man?" The question was put to both girls but his eyes were for Raquel.

A silence like the silence that follows a thunder-clap. It was Greta who broke it.

"It was my fault, Alphonse," she said. "I introduced him to Raquel on deck and he's been stepping on her heels ever since."

A look of relief crept into his eyes. The tempest began to abate ever so little.

"Who is he?"

"Bertie Adams. The polo player. Son of the Adams. His mother and sister buy all their clothes from Chez Alphonse."

"What has that to do with it?"

"Nothing, I suppose," Greta hung her head. "Only I thought you'd want us to know the right people and he was bent on meeting Raquel."

Alphonse strode forward until he stood before Greta.

"You will never again introduce to Mademoiselle Raquel a man or woman without my permission. Never! Understand?"

"But Monsieur Alphonse, that is not fair," Raquel interrupted.

He turned to her, shaking his head in gentle negation. He might have been a father chiding an erring child.

"You do not know the world, ma petite," he said. "Miss Greta knows it. Too well. She must not foist this knowledge on you. I will not have it. She has been warned. Another offense and back she goes. On the first ship."

Realizes Error

"Why don't you pack Rojas in pink cotton, then?" Greta taunted, aroused by the threat.

"I can take care of myself." Raquel's head went up. Her teeth gleamed white.

"Undoubtedly, mademoiselle," Alphonse's voice was oily, but it was not pleasant. "Nevertheless, what I have said must be, must be. We will have no quibbling. You understand, Miss Greta?"

"Yes," Greta's voice was tuned to obedience.

"And now for this Adams. He is in my room. He shall not [illegible] he apologizes properly to Mademoiselle Raquel. He is a spoiled boy. He thinks his money can buy everything, even license to enter a lady's room. He shall see."

Oh, please—not that!" Raquel protested. The last thing she wanted was to face Bertie Adams.

But Mademoiselle it shall not happen again."

Alphonse walked from the room.

Sister Greta rejoiced as soon as the door closed behind him. The old cove is certainly partial. He doesn't care whether I have a good night or not. See that dirk now he gave me on his exit line."

I shouldn't have gone to him, Raquel said regretfully.

I'll say you shouldn't! And him watching you like a cat eating hero on a mouse. Why, he's so jealous he's pea green."

Raquel forced a laugh. She knew now Greta had spoken the truth. But she must not admit it. She must convince Greta it was a mistake. That the suspicion was conjured up by Greta's readiness to see the whole world through her own worldly eyes.

Sometimes," said Raquel, "one may be so wise that one is foolish. This is such a time. Monsieur Alphonse has only the feeling of an employer for me. He finds me valuable as a model. One client for example, Mrs. Bosart, I doubled his sales to her. Because I am what he calls a type."

She wanted to arouse the predatory instinct in Greta, to make her see Alphonse's interest in the light of gain.

Greta considered.

"If I'm wrong," she said, "may I never pry another nose loose from his bankroll."

But Raquel knew Greta was half convinced.

Bertie Apologizes

In the morning Bertie Adams offered his apology. In the gray room whither he had been conducted by Alphonse. There was no mistaking the fact that Adams was genuinely sorry. His straight eyes. The tautness about his shoulders. His voice, firm and deep. He had the look of a high-bred young colt which, having felt the bit, settles down to a graceful, purposeful gait.

That afternoon Raquel nestled in her deck-chair to drowse a while in the sunshine. To revel in this new life that was strange to her, and yet into which she fitted as though it had always been hers.

Alphonse, beside her, was to all appearances immersed in a book. He was on guard. No other prowlers should invade the boundaries he had set up. After a while he arose and sauntered around the deck. His path led him frequently past Raquel.

"It's good for you sitting like this in the sun." Raquel turned her head. An elderly woman with sparse gray hair, a comfortable figure, and the rosy cheeks of a winter apple had addressed her. The woman sat in Greta's chair. Raquel liked her at once. Lucy, her mother, would have looked like this, if given half a chance.

"Yes," she said, giving the motherly woman the full warmth of her smile. "It makes me feel like a lazy cat stretched on a doorstep."

The woman's mouth opened as if she had meant to speak, but had been stopped suddenly by an incomprehensible vision. This girl's smile was so alive, so brilliant, it dazzled her.

Sheltered Wives Should Train for Possible Adversity, Says Fay King

SUDDENLY LEFT TO SUPPORT HERSELF SHE IS QUITE HELPLESS
IS IT TRUE YOU ARE TAKING A BUSINESS COURSE?
YES - ONE CAN NEVER TELL WHAT MIGHT HAPPEN
BEING PREPARED, SHE MAY BECOME A SECRETARY
FAY KING

By FAY KING

A wife who had every reason to believe her life settled and secure found herself suddenly alone with the need to support herself.

Mismanagement and bad investments left her with much less than she expected from her husband's estate.

Business friends of her husband were only too willing to help her, but she had no business training.

Had she been able to use a typewriter, take dictation in shorthand, or do bookkeeping, she could have had a good position for the asking.

It would be a good idea for some of these wives who play bridge to kill time, if they would take a business course. Even though they now do not have to work, it would help them manage their affairs if the need should arise.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Loves Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Noel's Outburst Brings Solution of Mystery Nearer.

Katherine opened the door of Noel's room at my knock and stepped out into the corridor.

Hurry him," she whispered after she had greeted me aloud. He's in a state. But Mary must go."

Then she threw a cheery admonition over her shoulder.

You mustn't keep her long, Noel. She has to leave almost immediately."

I made a mental calculation as I stepped through the doorway. I was all ready to go except my coat and hat, for my emergency bag for an overnight trip is always ready, and I had improved the opportunity to change my outing costume for traveling garb while I was talking to Lillian. Katie would have the lunch put up inside of 10 minutes, if indeed it were not already completed. Mary would not take longer than that, while Lillian and Harry, of course, had no preparations to make, having come out only for the day. There had been no time wasted so far, but I must not let Noel delay our starting. Dicky had sent word by Harry that he would stay at the farmhouse while I was gone, so I had no worries on that score, and had but to bid my husband goodby before stepping into the Underwood car.

Noel, fully dressed, for he had arrived at that stage of convalescence, was sitting by the fire and rose as I entered. I took his outstretched hand and pushed him gently back into his seat.

"No standing on ceremony, dear lad, until you are fully recovered," I told him, drawing up a chair opposite to him. "Now tell me what you wish of me. Mary said you wanted to see me before we left."

He bent forward slightly in his chair, his eyes looking steadily, inquiring at me.

"You are taking Mary with you on this trip to the mountains," he said slowly. "Why?"

I debated a second, then told him the exact truth.

"Because Mrs. Bickett, who has nursed you to convalescence, remember, and is in full charge of your case, thinks that it will be best for both you and Mary to be separated from each other for a few days. She says that Mary's presence seems to upset you instead of soothing you, as it did at first, and that, as Mary cannot help seeing that, it is a cruel strain to put upon her. I agree with Mrs. Bickett and am taking Mary with me."

The boy's eyes did not leave my face until I had finished. Then he suddenly put his face in his hands, his elbows on his knees, and I heard a whispered, anguished, "Oh, God!" come from his lips.

I waited until he had lifted his ravaged face again. Then I put out my hand and grasped one of his firmly.

"I don't know what is troubling you, Noel," I said softly, "and I haven't time now to talk to you about it. When I come back I want to have a long talk with you and see if we cannot brush some of these cobwebs away."

"Cobwebs!" he ejaculated, and in the word there was infinite astonishment and scorn.

"Nothing more," I reiterated. "I am sure you will agree with me when we have a chance to thresh the thing out fully."

"Not even to you," he began, but I shook my head at him with an indulgent smile.

"Listen to me a minute, dear boy," I commanded. "I am sure that I know one reason why you are so upset. You received a letter from your father at the same time that one came to Mary from him."

He started to his feet, his body trembling violently.

"You know that?" he cried. "But I destroyed it! You cannot—"

"Know what was in it," I finished. "No, of course not. But I can guess something of its contents for Mary showed the one she received to me. Shall I tell you what it said?"

His face flushed darkly.

"Did Mary tell you to tell me?" he asked hoarsely.

"Not directly," I answered, "but I know that she is willing you should hear what your father wrote her."

"But I know already," he said. "My father was kind enough to tell me in his letter to me. One hundred thousand dollars he offered her and her restoration as his protegee with the prospect of being the greatest Veritzen star he has ever launched. That on the one hand. Poverty, failure on the other if she refused to give me up. What girl in her senses would hesitate at such a choice? And Mary's strongest characteristic is her ambition."

I rose from my chair, my face stern, although my heart ached for the youth so obsessed by his dread of losing Mary and he had lost all mental perspective and balance.

"You deserve to lose Mary for misjudging her so," I said. "I ought not to tell you her reaction to that letter, but I'm going to. She would have flung it into your father's face if he had been here. But because of your actions she thinks that your father has poisoned your mind against her and that you cannot bear to have her near you. Only today she told me that if she lost you as seemed probable, she didn't see why she shouldn't consider your father's offer, for there would be nothing else left for her in life. But Noel, please believe this. If Mary goes out of your life it will be because you send her away."

Household Hints

When buying children's stockings it is wise to buy several pairs alike. Then the stockings that wear out first may be discarded and the remaining ones mated to the best advantage.

Next time you make chicken soup, try adding a grating of nutmeg just before serving. And when you prepare potato soup, you'll find a little minced onion and parsley vastly improves the flavor.

If you find it hard to stoop over to sweep dust into the dustpan, insert the handle of an old broom into the handle of the dustpan and secure with a nail or two. You will have one of the new kind without any expense.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Long and the "Shorts" of It.

The leopard makes no attempt to change his spots; the zebra is apparently content with his stripes, and the porcupine accepts his quills complacently. But man is always changing his CLOTHES or his silhouette and seeking a sartorial millennium.

Eve swam in a suntan bathing suit and Adam went around without a collar or a waistcoat. But WERE they happy? No! They had to look about for some way to persecute themselves and so they discovered petticoats.

After many eras of dress reform, it once seemed that MAN (not woman) had discovered the perfect costume for health, beauty, grace, comfort and utility. That was in the good old Colonial days.

His legs encased in wooden or silk stockings were carefree from the knees down and the buckles on his shoes gave him distinction and secret delight.

But DID he know when he was lucky? Did he know when he had everything HIS way, sartorially? Of course not! He wanted a CHANGE—and he GOT it!

He cast aside his protecting and beautifying periwig—and grew a beard! He discovered red flannel underwear and went in for hand-painted suspenders, long trousers, stovepipe hats, gold watch chains, hard-boiled collars and Ascot ties.

In winter he was stuffy looking and ponderous, and in summer he broiled manfully in bal-briggans, a padded woolen coat and long pants.

For nearly 50 years he went about looking like a cartoon, feeling like a martyr, and drinking out of a mustache cup!

Now, at last, he is REVOLTING (Rah, rah!). His soul is expanding and his spirit and his knees yearn for freedom.

He wants another change! And so he is boldly asserting his rebellion by appearing in SHORTS. And in soft Byronic collars, and polo shirts!

He doesn't know where he's going—sartorially—but he's on his way! Out of this germ of rebellion something will probably evolve or develop that looks like CLOTHES.

But, why go through this ungainly stage of evolution? Why not step right back into the costume of George Washington and be once more a thing of beauty, grace and comfort?

Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

A makeshift fingernail shine can be given with the palm of the hand. Even when a lacquer is used, it is advisable to have a preliminary polish with powder or nail cake. Bright Chinese red is a popular color for liquid polishes that keep glimmering for a week or more. Purple, green and black are used and, occasionally, one sees a lady at the big date with finger tips of silver or gold.

When copper-colored hair loses its shimmer and goes rusty, the henna pack, combined with peroxide, will restore the natural glint. Mix three tablespoonfuls of powdered Egyptian henna with hot water to form a paste the consistency of whipped cream. Add three teaspoonfuls of peroxide and apply to the hair when it is dry and oily. Let remain on seven minutes—maybe 10—and then shampoo. There are no harmful results.

Inhaling and exhaling fresh air to the full capacity of the lungs is a simple and inexpensive way of growing a complexion that is top-class. It loads up the red blood corpuscles with oxygen, stimulating the circulation which, when active, flushes the cheeks, puts shines in the eyes and keeps one on one's toes. Deep breathing sends off carbon dioxide, a substance that is responsible for aching heads and slumped spirits.

It is a grand idea to use one's company voice all the time. There's no reason why a voice, like a woman, can't always act pretty. Many a femme purrs at the postman, talks sweetly to the butcher, but shrills at her old man. She calm, placid soul speaks softly, and has a nervous system that gives her little trouble. She possesses a tranquillity that makes for a strong constitution and a digestion that isn't easily upset. She sleeps the sleep of the just. Yelling women are the ones who are carted away to sanitariums at regular intervals.

The Little Boy Who Always Has His Own Way Will Some Day Make Someone a Perfectly Rotten Husband!

Folks meet Alfred, the Brave Boom, who beats his wife with a Sam Browne belt because she won't fetch him a cinnamon bun!

Is the Big Boy balmy? No, my dear, he is not. He is quite as sane as you or me. But he has always had his own way. Because dear mamma and papa wanted to make him happy. And so, of course, when wife thwarts him!

Are you, perchance, raising little junior and sister on that same theory? Then read this. It'll be good for what ails you, Lydia—broadcasting, Lydia, being our Hero's Wife.

"Dear Sally Martin:

"What do you think of a mother or a father who lets the kids do just as they want to, and who gives them everything they nag for, because they want them to be happy?

"I have a neighbor like that, and believe me, I don't think a whole lot of their methods. And I'll tell you why.

"I married a man who had had his own way from baby up. He is still having it. Even though my health was at stake, he insisted on having it. And he has lost several perfectly good jobs because he couldn't have his own way and keep on working.

FOUR YEARS TOO MUCH

"Four years of it proved too much for me, and I gave him up as a bad job. I'm now suing for separate maintenance . . . and I suppose he'll have his own way about that, too.

"Here is one instance that's just typical, although it may sound awfully foolish to anyone but myself. Alfred ordered me (not requested) to go into the next room and get him a cinnamon bun. I had forgotten to put them on the table. If he had been decent about it, I'd have been glad to get him one, but I'd just got tired of being ordered around, so I refused.

"Upon my refusal, he beat me with a Sam Browne belt, doubled. And as I lay on the couch, crying, he said: 'I am sorry that I had to beat you, but you've got to be made to mind.' Can you beat that for pure addle-headed, ignorant conceit?

"Well I even lived with him after that. I was unable to support myself, and I had still a faint hope that he might change and do better. An eternally vain hope.

WANTS OWN WAY

"He doesn't smoke or drink, and except when he can't have his own way on a job and quits, he's a steady worker. He is good to his mother and is well liked by folks who don't know him too well. But his mania is having his own way, and his mother has always humored him in it. A total loss, I call him.

"I think that anybody who brings up a kid to have its own way all the time is certainly handing it . . . and the rest of the world that'll have to associate with it . . . a mighty bad deal. And I want to warn other girls to run every time they see one of those bozos coming. For heaven's sake, don't be the kind of a sap I was, and marry one!

"My husband is never satisfied, even when he does get his own way. Half the time he don't even know what he wants. He's just a big baby, and I guess he always will be. That's why I moved out. Do you think I did wrong?

"LYDIA."

Do I think you did wrong? I certainly do not. You've done the only sensible, self-respecting thing you could have done—and personally, I marvel at your control, lady. I'd hate to tell you what I'd have done to that big hunka blubber with his cinnamon bun complex!

But after all, he isn't entirely to blame. Al's parents crippled him as surely as though they had deliberately stunted him. They have stunted his mental growth. He has the body of a man, but the unreasoning brain and spirit of a child. He is utterly unfitted to cope with life and sooner or later, life will give him the K. O. unless some bitter punishment knocks sense into him.

Correct Manners

By MRS CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Engagement Gifts

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Is it proper for a sister to send her brother's "bride-to-be" an engagement gift? The girl has no parents so there will be no formal announcement of the engagement and no invitations to the wedding.

2—When are engagement gifts usually in order? This girl seems to cherish anything for her hope chest.

3—Are the groom's parents expected to give engagement gifts to the bride? K. K.

1—This would be a particularly delightful thing for you to do, and would, of course, especially under the circumstances, be deeply appreciated by your brother's fiance. Accompany your gift with a fine note of devotion and welcome-into-the-family feeling.

2—Engagement gifts are in order—when we really wish to send them. Usually the close relatives of the bride-to-be and her close friends want to make her happy by sending her something to commemorate this most important event, and a personal gift, sent with a note of best wishes does this.

3. Not "expected" exactly, but it is a gracious thing for them to do. In this case, since the girl has no mother and father to make the lovely gestures that make a girl so happy at this time when this sort of thing means so much, she will love them for thinking so kindly of her.

Good Taste in Birthday Gifts

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A young man whom I know very well gave me a lovely box of candy and a silk handkerchief for my birthday. As his birthday is soon, will you please tell me what sort of gift to give him. READER.

Since this man used such good taste in the presents he gave you, you must justify his taste by giving him a gift that is also accepted by good form. One of the best gifts is the well chosen book, and there are many books nowadays that are especially approriate to men.

A carton of his favorite cigarets every man welcomes, or a box of cigars, or a box of letter-paper (white or very light gray or Scotch granite) and with large sheets and envelopes.

With your gift, enclose your card with a birthday greeting on it or better, and more personal, a note of birthday greetings. A birthday telegram is also, I think, a charming birthday gesture.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Baby's Ills Are Often Due to Feeding.

When it comes to a sick baby, mother and doctor are at their wits' ends. It takes much wisdom to decide whether to take the food away entirely, or whether to give the sick baby a modified diet.

DR. COPELAND

At any time of year, but especially in late summer, a little baby is apt to develop a severe form of inflammatory diarrhea. In this the disease attacks the large bowel.

The baby may have been perfectly well, when suddenly there comes an attack of dysentery. This is accompanied by high fever. The child vomits. It is apparent that a well-developed diarrhea has made its appearance. As the symptoms progress and become severe we give the attack the name of "dysentery."

Almost every bad symptom a baby has may be traced to wrong feeding. The fact of the matter is that most of the ailments of the human family are traceable to dietary mistakes.

In dysentary the giving of food must be stopped at once. For twenty-four hours the infant must have nothing but pure water. It should be given in frequent doses, and if there is a tendency to vomit, the water should be given in smaller doses. Where the vomiting persists, even the water must be omitted.

The mother need have no anxiety in taking away the food from the baby for a period of twenty-four hours. The natural strength of the baby will guard against any unpleasant effect from this treatment.

After the first twenty-four hours a little food can be given. The best food at this time is a thin gruel, such as barley gruel. This should be the only food given for a day or two.

For the child who is poorly nourished and seems to need more food, boiled skim milk may be given. At the end of two days a mixture of one part milk to three parts water may be given to the baby. If this food is continued for some time, orange juice should be added to the diet.

As babies seem to be such frail things, and seem to be so dependent upon an unceasing supply of food, the new mother may hesitate to do as the doctor tells her in such a case as we are describing. But the tiny stomach and alimentary tract must have a rest so that the baby's recuperative powers may be built up and the system restored to normal health. This can be done only by eliminating food for the time specified.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, August 19.

The planetary configurations ruling on this day may be read as conflicting. While there may be much activity, it may not be of a harmonizing, satisfactory or profitable nature, as the disposition will tend toward contention, strife and turbulence, as well as to gain ends by shrewd or tricky methods. There may be some good openings and some preferments in employment, but writings and papers are likely to give concern unless wisely safeguarded.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively and aggressive year, but one in which affairs may be complicated by impetuous and tempestuous indulgence and crafty or underhand manipulations. With restraint, deliberation, equitable dealings and precaution with all writings and papers, all may be turned into profitable and satisfactory directions, with new opportunities and preferment from superiors.

A child born on this day may be capable and skilful in many directions, but its aggressiveness, impetuosity and proneness toward craft and expediency may be the means of defeating its excellent opportunities.

PANTHERS LIKELY AROUND TOP AGAIN

WHAT IS THE football situation with our Pitt Panthers? Dr. John Bain Sutherland is back from the golf galleries of Great Britain, done with his summer coaching course, and now mind set on the season ahead. He's gloomy, characteristically so. But elsewhere there is some optimism.

Dr. J. B. Sutherland

As Jock points out, Pitt is facing a hard schedule, a succession of games with West Virginia, Western Reserve, Syracuse, Notre Dame, Nebraska, Carnegie Tech, Ohio State and Penn State, besides the starter with Waynesburg. The lightest two games, Waynesburg and Western Reserve, are near the top. After Reserve there will be nothing but hard struggles week after week.

And Sutherland is going to camp one week from next Sunday with a small squad—only 37 men. Generally there are more. Too, he has lost Donchess, Montgomery, Parkinson, Uansa and DiMeolo. On the face of it there is opportunity for a man of Jock's temperament to be pessimistic.

BUT OPTIMISM BOBS up elsewhere in the picture. There are, for instance, 11 letter men back, also other good veterans. Jock could put a veteran team on the field against Waynesburg and have veterans for reserves. It is reasonable to believe that some of these players are better than they were last year. Many coaches hold that a man is at his best in his third year of college football.

Pitt has four of those two-letter men on hand. They are Captain Eddie Baker at quarter, Josh Williams and Bill Wallnchus at halves, and Chuck Tully at tackle. Not bad. And there are one-letter players in Doc Daugherty at center, Hart Morris at guard, Jess Quatse at tackle, and Jim MacMurdo, Paul Collins and Ed Hirschberg at end. Nothing wrong with that foundation for the team that will carry the Blue and Gold into the gridiron wars this year.

MIKE MILLIGAN is not a letter man, but is regarded as a strong guard, with experience. Bob Morris, Walter Babic, Ernest Lewis, Al Ciper and Walter Zilcoski are other linemen with experience and good qualifications.

Franklin Hood

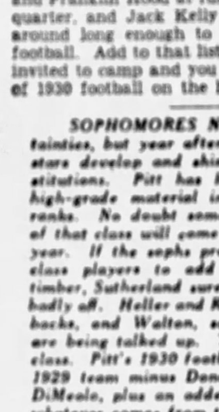
Dan Fuge is another experienced end, and Franklin Hood at full. Harry Wagner at quarter, and Jack Kelly at half have been around long enough to know how to play football. Add to that list the 15 sophomores invited to camp and you have the personnel of 1930 football on the hill.

SOPHOMORES NEVER ARE certainties, but year after year sophomore stars develop and shine at the big institutions. Pitt has had its share of high-grade material in the sophomore ranks. No doubt some of the 15 men of that class will come to the front this year. If the sophs produce three first-class players to add to the veteran timber, Sutherland surely will not be so badly off. Heller and Reider, sophomore backs, and Walton, sophomore guard, are being talked up. They may be the three big stars from that class. Pitt's 1930 football strength, in short, is represented by the 1929 team minus Donchess, Montgomery, Uansz, Parkinson and DiMeolo, plus an added year's experience of the men left, plus whatever comes from the sophomore ranks. The outlook is for a strong team, maybe not as strong as last year's, but strong enough to keep Pitt around the top of the heap.*

THOUGH THE DETHRONEMENT of a sport king, the fall of a champion, always is a jolt, rarely has a happening of that nature been such a staggering surprise as was the defeat of the mighty Gallant Fox, and of Whichone along with him, by the 100-to-1 shot, Jim Dandy, owned by Chaffee Earl, in the Travers Stakes at Saratoga last Saturday. Gallant Fox had clearly established himself as the 3-year-old champion of the year, and Whichone had been rated the only rival even close to him. It had appeared to be only a question as to which of these two would be the winner. Nobody had dreamed that a rank outsider might come along and beat both of them. It was just one of those sport miracles that usually can only be imagined and that are seldom seen in real life. Explaining it is beyond the powers of anybody.

It may have been the muddy track, on which Jim Dandy appeared to be more at home than the others; it may have been that Earl Sande and Sonny Workman were so intent upon beating each other that they forgot there were two rival starters in the race, and it may have been due to the advantage that Jim Dandy, carrying six less pounds, had in running a shorter distance along the rail all the way while Workman's tactics in trying to run Gallant Fox off his feet kept the Fox and Whichone out in the middle of the course, where they had to cover more ground. Probably it was a combination of all these items. In any event, Jim Dandy has contributed to turf history the biggest upset in many years. His record makes Saturday's achievement all the more amazing. In 20 starts in two seasons he failed 17 times to finish among the first three horses. One of his two victories, scored in the Grand Union Hotel Stakes in 1929, on the same track, was another upset at 50 to 1. In his only other start at Saratoga this year he finished eighth in a field of nine. Prior to Saturday he had only one third-place to his credit this season and his earnings for this year totaled only $125.

THOUGH NO FAULT ever could be found with his hitting, the fielding of Jimmy Foxx at first base for the A's has come in for considerable adverse criticism at times. More than once Jimmy's miscues have caused him to be razzed by the Quakertown fans.



Jimmy Foxx

But Jimmy has been coming along gradually, overcoming his defensive faults as the weeks passed by, until now Connie Mack declares him to be the most improved player he has seen this season. And Connie isn't given to loose talk or false praise.

"SINCE THE PRESENT season came in I have seen a number of improved ball players," says Mack, "but none that has improved as rapidly or to the same extent as Foxx. By next season I expect to see Jimmy playing as finished an article of ball at first base as Stuffy McInnis did when he was in his prime. Foxx makes that throw to second base for a double play in grand shape. He certainly whips that ball down there, and he is vastly improved in every other respect. And at bat he surely has come through for us in the pinches. His driving has won many a game that meant much to us in our fight for another pennant."*

JACK ZIVIC simply won't hang up the old gloves. Though his proposed bout with Kid Finkelstein did not come off, the Lawrenceville product has made new arrangements for a return to the ring in New York. He is to meet Ruby Goldstein for 10 rounds at Henderson's Bowl, Coney Island, on September 3.

The bout is to be the main event of a charity show for the benefit of the Coney Island Jewish center. It will be a sort of double come-back attempt, as Goldstein, like Zivic, has been out of the game for some time. Zivic has not fought since he met Tiger Joe Randall in Motor Square Garden here early in the year.

THE YARN THAT Sammy Mandell was doped before his fight with Al Singer, in which he lost the lightweight title, is still going around the country, though scoffed at as generally as were similar stories that were told about Jim Jeffries, Jack Dempsey and other former ring champions when they went down to defeat.

It was finally carried to Packey Schwartz, of Chicago, an expert

ENGLISH GIRL FAVORITE AT FOREST HILLS

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Shorn of much of its brilliancy by the absence of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Helen Jacobs, America's No. 1 and No. 2 stars, respectively, play in the national women's tennis singles championship opens today at Forest Hills.

With Mrs. Moody not defending her title and Miss Jacobs out of competition because of poor health, the lot of favoritism has fallen on Miss Betty Nuthall, 19-year-old English star. Miss Nuthall is making her third attempt at the American title, having been defeated once in the finals by Queen Helen and last year in the semi-final round by Mrs. Molla Mallory.

Twenty-five first-round matches will be played today, with all of the seeded stars except Miss Josephine Cruickshank, Miss Marjorie Morrill and Baroness Giacomo Levi, of Italy, getting into action. The other seeded players include Mrs. L. A. Harper, Miss Eleanor Goss, Miss Sarah Palfrey, Miss Ethel Burkardt, Miss Mary Greer, Miss Edith Cross and Miss Nuthall.

On the courts of the stadium, scene of many a famous tennis battle, four of the matches will be played, while the remainder will be staged on the outer courts.

2:30—Miss Edith Cross, San Francisco, vs. Mrs. P. S. Hawk, New York.

COOPER WINS ST. PAUL OPEN

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 18.—(AP)—"Lighthorse" Harry Cooper more than upheld his sobriquet yesterday by galloping away with first prize money in the rich $10,000 St. Paul open golf championship.

The stout Chicago professional captured the title and the $2,500 pot of gold that went with it by compiling an amazing 72-hole total of 280 strokes, eight lusty wallops under par, for the Keller County course and three shots lower than the fine total tallied by Tony Manero, the great little shot maker from New York who finished second and received $2,000.

HORTON SMITH THIRD

The victory, clinched by two brilliant rounds of 68 and 70, incidentally erased the blow Cooper suffered during the 1930 national open at Minneapolis during which his hotel room was rifled of cash and clothes valued at $1,500.

Horton Smith, always a big money winner, finished third with a 285 total to win $1,500. Fourth came to Walter Hagen with a 286, while Gene Sarazen, of New York, and Charles Lacey, the astonishing Briton from Clementson, N. J., tied for fifth place with 288 totals, even par for the long grind. Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, easily topped the amateurs in the field and tied with

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By THE BENCHWARMER.

Well, folks, the few of us rooks and regulars that stayed home didn't have any picnic listenin' in on the returns of that one yesterday. I guess Ol' Daz must have cut the rabbits out of them apples before the game started, judging by the way our gang was hittin' him.

The last time he pitched against us was about 10 days ago at Forbes Field. He collapsed on the bench that day and they was swingin' more towels in the Brooklyn dugout than you'd see around a ring when Phil Scott is fightin'.

WOOD'S TOUGH LUCK

We all got a big kick out of young Charley Wood's pitchin' against Uncle Robbie Saturday. That boy just missed winnin' that game by a couple of hairs. He was a bit off on control in the first and them singles that bounced through the middle of the diamond in the fifth put the Robins across. If we was hittin' like we have been lately we could have pulled the game out for the southpaw.

With so many fellas hurt and so many in the bullpen there was only two or three of us on the bench to cheer for Jule durin' the doubleheader. It's just one thing after another this year for the Pirates. I'll bet if another war would start the whole team would be drafted before the season ended.

Them Sunday jumps to Brooklyn has knocked us for a row this year. We've lost every one of them Sunday excursions and I think my roomie has been the victim of every game. Only for these games he'd have a fine record for himself.

ROOKIES DUE SOON

Well, it won't be long now 'til the bush league seasons will close and I guess the young ball-players will be coming into Forbes Field on handcars and every other way.

It looks like a lot of us recruits will get a chance to show something in September. I ain't afraid, but here's one guy that won't volunteer to go up there in a clinch against Vance.

PIRRONE, ROCCO GO TONIGHT

By JAMES MILLER.

Patsy Pirrone, hard-hitting Canton, O., heavyweight, who has been just a preliminary boy around these parts, will get his first opportunity to make good in the main-bout class tonight when he meets Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City heavy, in the 10-round feature at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock.

Pirrone in his recent showings at the bowl has defeated Harry Williams, local Negro heavyweight, and later came back to knock out Williams. These victories won a warm spot in the hearts of the local fight fans for the Ohio fighter, whose main idea in the ring is to please the cash customers, and Patsy has done that in no uncertain manner.

In meeting Rocco, Pirrone will face a veteran of many ring battles. Rocco has fought the best of them in the short time he has been in the roped square, and one cannot overlook the fact that he holds a win over Johnny Risko, the Cleveland baker boy, who has a pet way of destroying the heavyweight hopes that bob up so consistently.

SMALLWOOD MEETS SMACKEY

In the other eight-round bout, Ted Yarosz, Monaca welterweight, meets a tough lad in Billy Holt, Negro, and another Buckeye State fighter. Holt made quite a name for himself locally by his pleasing fights at the Moose Temple last winter.

Steve Senich, Homestead, and Joey Angelo, of Braddock, box the second six-round bout, with Hans Roberts, German welterweight, of Brookline, and Fast Black, Negro, formerly of Buffalo and now of Braddock, fighting in the opening six-rounder.

Boxing Bouts Carded for Tonight

Emmett Rocco vs. Patsy Pirrone, 10 rounds; Chet Smallwood vs. Johnny Smackey and Billy Holt vs. Ted Yarosz, 6 rounds each, and Steve Senich vs. Joey Angelo and Hans Roberts, vs. Fast Black, 6 rounds each, Meyers Bowl, North Braddock.

Frankie Cawley vs. Jack Gagnon, 10 rounds, and Matt Adgie vs. Jim Hermon, Gene Buffalo vs. Al Conway, Young Firpo vs. Sol Lippard and Tony Morgano vs. Eddie Cool, 6 rounds each, Arena, Philadelphia.

Battling Levinsky vs. Primo Ubaldi and Harold Mays vs. Armando de Carlos and Billy Kabot vs. Frank Bain, 10 rounds each, Henderson Bowl, Coney Island.

Between Rounds

Johnny Dunn, New Kensington featherweight, again takes the place of Jackie Rodgers, North Side Negro knockout star, who has a habit of injuring himself whenever his scheduled bouts look tough. Rodgers now claims he hurt his knee while training and will not be able to go through with his bout with Joey Thomas, of Chicago, at Hickory Park, Millvale, Thursday night. Matchmaker Charley Lack immediately got in touch with Jimmy Conrad and signed Dunn to take Rodgers' place on the card.

Jack Wilson, North Side middleweight, who has been fighting under the guiding arm of Jimmy Conrad since coming here last winter, will be an addition to the Red Mason stable in September.

Wilson had a three-year contract with Conrad, but the latter has agreed to release Wilson from the contract. Wilson has been in training around Meadville for the past three weeks and will be ready for bouts when he goes with Mason.

Frankie Cawley, a coal miner, when not fighting the heavy ads, will go to the post tonight against Jack Gagnon, of Boston, in Philadelphia. Battling Levinsky, the grand old man of the ring, come back for another shot before he celebrates his 40th birthday, when he boxes Primo Ubaldi, of Italy, at Henderson's Bowl, Coney Island, tonight.

Sparky Ewalt, of the Pastorious A. C., and Jay Collins, Superior A. C., top ranking amateur heavyweights, are matched for the feature bout at the bi-monthly show at the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., tomorrow night. In the other heavyweight battle, Stewart Brown, Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., boxes Slim Kavash, of the Woods Run A. C., Cecil Mahoney, Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., meets Max Elling, Pittsburgh Lyceum, in the welterweight class.

HOTSY TOTSY WINS

RED BANK, N. J., Aug. 18.—(INS.)—Hotsy Totsy, owned by Victor Kleisrath, New Yorker, was acclaimed all-around speed champion today. After winning the Gold Cup race here Saturday, Hotsy Totsy won the National free-for-all in a duel with the California, owned by Dick Loynes, Long Beach, Cal.

Manager Jewel Ens, of the Pirates, finds himself at the head of a sorry-looking slab corps as the result of injuries and the defection of Heine Meine. The club's morale, however, is fair, to say the least.

Meine's departure was not a big surprise to his mates, yet his leaving had a noticeable effect on the members of the team.

DETERMINED TO QUIT

Heine's getaway looked like "French leave" on the outside, but he really did not make up his mind in a hurry. His move was not influenced by his tough defeat of Friday when a disputed pitch and a spectacular catch by Chuck Klein, of the Phillies, spoiled a victory for the St. Louis Dutchman.

"Win or lose, I had made up my mind to turn in the old uniform after that game," Meine informed the Sun-Telegraph before he boarded a train for St. Louis.

Heine was one of the outstanding pitchers during his first spring training tour with the Buccos, his consistent form causing Manager Ens to nominate him for the opener in Cincinnati.

On the long jump from New Orleans to Cincinnati the day before the bell rang, the right-hander picked up a throat ailment that put him in bed for opening day, and the pitcher hasn't been the same since. On one previous occasion this year he threatened to leave but apparently he was constrained to stay. When he made up his mind again, nothing could change it.

A. A. U. CHAMPS FACE TORRID GOING HERE

CRACK FIELDS WILL PRESS RULERS

By JESS CARVER

Uneasy [illegible] the heads that wear the crowns in the box will like to pound the cinders and vault over the 4-foot crossbars or jump height in the general run of us would like to climb competent in the annual A. A. U. track and field championships here Friday and Saturday of this week and Monday (Labor).

Unless the present reign [illegible] goes flooie p[illegible] Friday and [illegible] one or two of the 1929 champions will be on hand to defend their laurels. Pat Edwards won't be here, that is a cinch, so the little Negro stars [illegible] will most certainly find a new resting place. Jack Merchant, the lefty hammer thrower, and Ed Kirns, the heaver of the shot, have not been reported headed eastward from California to date. If they fail to appear, and I have it on good authority that Kirns will NOT, there will be three vacant crowns for the boys to try on.

CHAMPS IN DANGER

Some of the lads who make it a habit to study closely the doings of track and field stars, to the detriment of the numbers, and bosses, are of the opinion that very few of the kings now reigning supreme within the cloistered protection of the A. A. U. will retain their titles this week.

Eddie Tolan will find the going rough, if not tough, in the sprints. He is one of the two double champs, one of the two double champs slated to show his wares here, the other being hurdler Steve Anderson.

Tolan's most torrid competition is expected to come from George Simpson, the Ohio State comet. George and Eddie have been dueling about the country all year, with honors just about even. They were both knocked off by Frank Wyckoff at the National Intercollegiate. Frank won't appear here against 'em, and the fourth place he took at Denver a year ago will be sold to the highest bidder.

TOUGH IN TUNNELS

O. K., the same goes for the furious although in this race my own dough, if any, will go on a dark horse. He's tough running in the 220, in the Pitt Stadium, starting and ending as one does in a tunnel. Maybe Russ Sweet of the Olympic Club or Claude Bracey will have something to say about the furlong.

Reginald Bowen, freshly returned from a tour of Europe, as fresh as he was when he set out, is back home in fine trim and a prime favorite to successfully defend his quarter-mile championship. Maybe it won't be so easy for ocean voyages and jaunting about foamy Europe are not exactly the right sort of tonics for tough quarter-miles against birds like Edrar Blake, Bill Storie, Russ Walters and one or two other young gents of parts.

And what a dog fight Stevie Anderson is going to run into when he sets out in defense of his hurdle titles. Lee Bentman, Dick Rockaway, Frank Cuhel, the Taylor boys, Eddie Spence and one or two of those California lads will make it very, very merry for Stevie.

The Tipoff

Jesse Mortensen, who [illegible] the javelin here this week in the National A. A. championship, made [illegible] for South Carolina's Tigers football team last fall. He scored touchdowns against both Pitt and Tech.

Fellas who enjoy watching athletes with real form, watch Jack Medica, the young Seattle youth champion, [illegible] competing for the Los Angeles A. C. [illegible], though a graduate from Yale, will strut better than 15 feet, seven or eight inches for you, which is a darned sight further than any of us would care to fall.

Bob Tandy, a sweet tackle with certain Pop Warner's Stanford eleven this year and lead it as one of the few regulars in the lineup against the West Coast Army eleven in the Cardinal's opening game.

Pop starts practice Monday, September 15, and five days later, Rev. rounds 'em, sends his team into action. Which is a tipoff on about how tough the West Coast Army must be.

Harlow Rothert, a mighty fine halfback for Pop a year ago, I saw him ruin the center of the Army line, and a young fellah led Pappy are hooked to fight it out for Harlow's position at right half. Caghill is said to be a second Tommy Davies. He is fast, a fine passer and good enough kicker and is reported to be the nuts defensively.

I find it difficult to get the impression out of my mind that Chuck Smalling, the diminutive Stanford fullback last year, wasn't the best looking back I saw all season. Having had the good fortune to travel from coast to coast, and having seen most of the good backs, Smalling looked to those unfortunate eyes to be the cream of the crop—against West Point at least.

Instead of putting in Friday, the day before the game in Omaha, Pitt probably will move directly into Lincoln for the Nebraska game this year. In seasons past, it has not been the best thing for teams to spend a night in Lincoln before tackling the Cornhuskers, for [illegible] Husker students had a habit of staging all-night celebration.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Those Cubs are sure tough on their home grounds. When out-of-town teams visit Chicago they know they have Cicero, Ill., to the right of them, Herrin, Ill., to the left of them and Lake Michigan right in front of them. It makes 'em nervous. I guess that is why most visiting clubs blow up before they are blown up. If Joe McCarthy can flatten the Giants the way he put salt on the tails of the Robins, the season will be practically over and the winner of the world series will be the Pennsylvania Railroad, which runs between Philadelphia and Chicago.

The running of the historic Travers Mid-Summer Derby at Saratoga Saturday produced the most sensational turf upset of the year when Jim Dandy, with Frankie Baker up, led Gallant Fox and Whichone to the wire and reaped a 100-to-1 reward for his backers. Jim Dandy and Baker are shown as they received the plaudits of some 30,000 turf fans after the sensational race.

[illegible] The new Husker coach, Dana Bible, told Jack Sutherland last year after Pitt licked his team, that he wanted the Panthers to come to Lincoln the day before the game, assuring Jack that the boys would not be bothered and that they'd be able to get all the rest they wanted the night before. It's rather tough to take a trip 1,000 miles from Omaha to Lincoln, the day of the game, specially on one of those Nebraska specials.

COOPER WINS RICH OPEN

Tommy Armour, of Detroit, Western open champ, with a 289 total.

Cooper, within striking distance of the lead from the first round on, shoved himself right over the top on the homeward stretch of his morning round yesterday. Tied for fourth place at the end of the first 36 holes Saturday, Cooper started out on his third round with a 37, one over par for the initial nine holes.

SHOOTS GREAT GOLF

Coming back, he ripped the course wide open with a dizzy 31, which gave him a smart 68 and sky-rocketed him into the lead at the three-quarter way mark with a grand total of 210 strokes, one less than Manero's 54-hole total.

On the blistering homeward nine, the greatest ever carded on the Keller course, he clicked off five birdies and made every one of them count by playing par even on the rest of them.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Fred Miley, Boston, Mass., professional, at the Lexington Country Club, yesterday shot 36 holes in 132 over the country club course. Local golfers said the score might be a world record.

LOTT, JACOBS NET WINNERS

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—George M. Lott, Jr., member of the American Davis Cup forces, today gained the third round of the fourteenth annual Newport Casino invitation tennis tournament with an easy victory over James Van Alen, of Newport, 6-1, 6-2, after receiving a first round bye.

Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, also aided by the draw, kept pace with the internationalist by disposing of Henry Moore, of New York, in almost the same decisive fashion, 6-2, 6-1.

Keith Gledill, rising young Californian, played but one match to enter the third round, dropping but a single game to Christopher Emmett, of Boston. Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, Cal., was equally strong in his first round match with Maurice Bayon, of New Orleans, dropping one game in the opening set to the Tulane University player.

Syd Wood, of New York, one of the most promising members of tennis' "younger set," gained the third bracket after a hard tussel with the veteran, Fred Baggs, of New York, 6-4, 6-2.

Junior Coen, of Kansas City, unseeded despite his high national ranking, also played but one match to enter the third round, defeating Harvey Lake, of Ocean City, N. J., in an extra set match, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Long's Sport Comment

training-camp cook who was food specialist for Benny Leonard in the latter's boxing days. Asked if it would be possible to dope a fighter before a bout, Schwartz replied that the whole thing was absurd.

"IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to put anything in the food that the sense of taste cannot detect," Schwartz said, "provided that the person is not intoxicated or sick. It might be possible to put the stuff in tea, coffee or milk, but even then dope strong enough to take effect could be tasted. Anyhow, the doper would not know when the stuff would take effect. He couldn't gauge the time. Dope affects some persons sooner than others, and even an expert could not judge the exact time it would get in its work. A fighter eats his last meal before a bout at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The bout doesn't take place until 10 o'clock, and if a fighter were doped during his last meal it would be noticed long before he entered the ring. I think the drowsy feeling that affected Mandell was caused by trying to make weight too often. The same thing happened to Leonard in his first fight with Lew Tendler, and it nearly cost Benny his title."

Sammy Mandell

THE CUBS SURELY are making a determined fight to hold the pennant lead they gained by taking three games out of four from the Dodgers last week. They came from behind in the ninth inning to win the first game of Saturday's double-header with the Phils, they came from behind in the ninth round to get a tie in the second event, and they came from behind twice to score another victory yesterday. And now they've got to continue the battle for a while, as they did last fall, without the services of Charley Grimm, who was injured on Saturday, using a third baseman, Lester Bell, on the first sack.

One of the gamest victories on record will have to be credited to the Bruins if they capture the flag in spite of the loss of Grimm's services at this critical stage, on top of the courage they have already shown in fighting their way to the top in August after losing two such assets as Rogers Hornsby and Hal Carlson. Both the Cubs and the Robins gained half a game on the Giants through the latter's defeat in the second game with the Cardinals yesterday. Burleigh Grimes, who gave the McGrawites the setback, cannot be accused of playing any favorites in the pennant race. In scoring his last three victories he has beaten all three of the contenders, first Chicago, 4 to 3, next Brooklyn, 8 to 2, and yesterday New York, 14 to 4.

MRS. BLAIR'S 76 SETS PACE AT SCHENLEY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Mrs. J. M. Blair was leading the early finishers in the qualifying round of the annual championship tournament of the Women's Schenley Park Golf Club today with a score of 76. She went out in 42 and returned in 34.

Three strokes behind was Mrs. Margaret Curry, one of the favorites to win the event, who turned in a 79. The scores of the early finishers:

Mrs. J. M. Blair	42-34	76
Mrs. Margaret Curry	42-37	79
Miss E. Smith	48-40	88
Mrs. Al McBride	48-44	92
Mrs. A. G. Josephson	49-45	94

CADDIE-MASTERS PLAY

The Caddie-masters and Assistant Professionals' Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania is holding one of its monthly one-day affairs at the Greensburg Country Club, and, inasmuch as it is more or less of a special affair, what with a big dinner to follow in the evening, a full attendance is anticipated.

Members of the caddie welfare committee of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association have soured in the business of making the event a big success.

TOURNEY TOMORROW

Tomorrow the annual Washington and Greene County amateur championship gets under way at the Monongahela Valley Country Club, with the stars from the four clubs in that territory, Washington, Nemacolin, Monongahela and Greene County, endeavoring to lift the crown now worn by Tom Waggoner, of Nemacolin, who has promised to be on hand to defend his laurels.

The Westinghouse Electric Company tourney for newspapermen also is slated for tomorrow, and will be played at Edgewood.

Baroni was the star of the contest, turning in a card of 74. He had rounds of 36 and 38. Gunn scored a 76.

LOCAL NETTERS SEEK PUBLIC PARKS TITLE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The Municipal racquet hosts of the nation will inaugurate hostilities today in the eighth annual National Public Parks tennis tournament on the fine clay courts at Rock Creek Park.

Journeying hither from 30 major cities of the land, the entrants represent the cream of talent of the country's thousands of public rectangle stars, each contender boasting claim to titular fame in either singles or doubles in his locality.

LOCALS ENTERED

Frank Broida and Mrs. Jean Artzberger, standard bearers of Pittsburgh as guests of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, must face brilliant opposition in their quest for nation-wide laurels. Never before in the history of parks competition has there been assembled a field of contenders as well balanced and uniformly capable as the throng of luminaries that will battle for honors in the capital this week.

Led by Champion George Jennings of Chicago, Jack Delara, of Los Angeles; Jack Castle, ex-Pittsburgher, now of Buffalo; Bob Considine, Washington youth, who Saturday downed Dr. John O'Loughlin, of the P. A. A., for the Western Maryland crown, the LeJack brothers, of Chicago; Gus Amsterdam, Philadelphia flash; Lucille Hartz and Helen Kupp, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Ruth Martinez, driving Washingtonian, the throne-chasing array looms as one of the strongest on the great annual racquet circuit.

The Pittsburgh pair, however, stand ready to acquit themselves most creditably against the toughest of 'em. Broida's steady ground game, based on powerful cross-court forehand and sideline backhand, is high-calibered enough to hold to good advantage even an extraordinarily well-developed baseline style or a truly capable barrier attack.

MRS. ARTZBERGER CLEVER

Mrs. Artzberger, while not a severe hitter, drives consistently from either side, boasts a fair defensive chop, and plays the net better than does the average feminine player. She has sharpened her game not a little the past season and will be primed to render excellent account of herself when the women's contesting starts on Wednesday.

Rather unfortunately, rain put a crimp in practice sessions yesterday afternoon, with the result that out-of-town performers lost opportunity to familiarize themselves with the conditions of play on the Rock Creek lot. The courts, though, appear in such splendid trim and the general layout is so manifestly promising that it is unlikely that yesterday's washout will result very adversely to any of the nearly three-score visitors on deck for the milling.

Broida's first-round opponent will be determined today when the men's singles draw will be made. Meanwhile the accomplished little Pittsburgher will cast about in quest of a doubles partner, a search in which he need not confine himself to aspirants from his own district, but may align with any partner whom he desires to join and who is willing to throw his lot in with them.

The tilting was scheduled to get under way at 2 o'clock this afternoon, immediately upon return of the contestants from the White House, where a group photograph will be taken with Secretary of State Stimson acting as host in the absence of President Hoover.

Local Soccer Loop To Meet Tonight

The Pittsburgh Central Soccer League will meet this evening at Honus Wagner's. Representatives of the Pittsburgh Celtics, Pittsburgh Rovers, Mesta Machine, Union Switch and Signal, Pierpoint Motors, Crafton Heights, Clan Douglas and the Sons of St. George are to attend.

Officers are to be elected and rules prepared.

LAYDEN ON VACATION

Berg and Singer Won't Fight; They're Pals

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(INS.)—Jackie (Kid) Berg will not fight Al Singer for the world lightweight title for the strange reason that the two boys "are pals," it was reported today.

Sol Gold, manager of the English boxer, it was said, will tell the New York Boxing Commission tomorrow that rather than risk an unblemished reputation for honesty, Berg will pass up the title bout. Gold said no less than six New York boxing writers have taken the stand that Berg and the champion are too friendly to be matched and that they doubt either man would do his best.

"We would rather go without the title than fight Singer and have it said there was something funny about it," said Gold.

TITLE SHOOT EVENT OPENS

More than a hundred shooters are entered in the first day's program, which will see the class championships of North America decided. There are six classes in which champions will be determined. Some real scores are anticipated, as some of the best shots on the continent will participate.

Eight former winners of the grand American handicap are here, all hopeful of repeating. The number of former winners entered this year may mean the breaking of this long-standing record.

The 10 high scores in each division will determine the shooters who will make up the East and West teams. These two teams will vie for honors tomorrow, $500 being the purse for the winner.

Tomorrow will also see the amateur clay target title of North America for men and women decided, as well as the junior and sub-junior title.

The state team championship, the race for state champions, the veterans' race and the professional clay target champion of North America are included in Wednesday's program.

Penn Crew Wins Liege Regatta Title

LIEGE, Belgium, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The Penn Athletic Club eight yesterday won the championship of the international rowing regatta, defeating Denmark and Italy in the final. The time was 5:27.

The Denmark eight finished 20 seconds back of the winners and although Penn's time was slower than Saturday, it was probably due to adverse weather conditions, which included a high wind and rough water.

GOLF As Champions Play It

As far as the effect on a player's game is concerned, is there such a thing as playing too much golf?

Answered by JOHN BLACK

You can just bet there is such a thing as playing too much golf! If a player does play too much his muscles lose their snap and he can't concentrate decently on the game—in fact, the thing is not a game when you are over-golfed—it is unpleasant hard work.

A schedule which I find beneficial in getting ready for tournaments in this: I am on the links every day. Three days a week I practice one hour in the morning and one hour in the afternoon—and I mean practice, not playing around the course. On the other four days I play a round or so, but not enough to tire me very much or to make me want to stop. I always rest the day before a match and won't even look at a club or talk golf during that day.

With many of the second-half races drawing to a close, fewer sandlot battles are carded for the local lots this evening. In the West Penn League, the North Bessemer team will be the attraction at Whitaker meeting George Vogt's club. Whitaker is very much in the West Penn second-half race and the fans should see an interesting game.

Two games will be staged in the Minor League Battling for second place, the Jednota club will entertain the L. F. Burkes, of Mt. Washington, and the Sankey club hooks up with William Penn at Crafton Heights. The outcome of the first game will have considerable bearing upon the chances of the clubs in the pennant race.

CIVICS MEET SHOEMEN

In the City League, three games will be played. Olympia Park will see a great battle with Art Rooney and his North Side Civics hooking up with the Book Shoe aggregation.

Dormont will do its stuff at Dean Field, opposing the J. L. Thomas nine, and it may be stated that the Bloomfielders are playing a bang-up game. It would tickle Homewood to see the Thomas boys come out on top, but stopping that Dormont hitting array is going to be a tough job, even for Novey, classed as the best slab prospect in the league. A big league scout was looking this boy over, during the week along with Johnny Cheiko, of the W. O. W. outfit.

Johnny Dunsky, who still manages to keep that Smiles outfit winning ball games, will take his team to Woodmen Field to meet the Wows. Seeing that neither of the clubs is in the pennant race, it will be just another ball game for the fans.

J. L. THOMAS DEFEATED

In a City League encounter yesterday, the North Side Civics punched out an 8 to 0 victory over J. L. Thomas. Daniels, on the slab for the Civics, was touched for 11 safe hits, but kept them scattered.

The Homestead Grays won two games. First they played the Posterville Merchants at Posterville, winning by a score of 5 to 4 in a close ball game. Then they hopped over to Akron and downed the Akron Guards, 5 to 1.

The North Side Elks had little trouble in defeating Linden Grove, 6 to 2, and the Elite nine nosed out the Valley Tigers, 7 to 5.

BUCS, ROBINS CLASH TODAY

not even the pleadings of Messers. Dreyfuss and Ens. Bo Heine, on the voluntary retired list of the club, is through for this season at least.

The Pirates spent a very unpleasant afternoon in Brooklyn yesterday. Dazzy Vance was in his best form and the Flatbush flag-hunters blanked the Pirates, 5 to 0.

Vance had so much stuff on the ball he whiffed nine of the Pittsburgh hitters.

Girl Swim Stars Crack Three Marks

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Three world's swimming records for women were broken yesterday at the new Roman pool at Newport Beach, by their respective holders, Agnes Geraghty, national breast stroke champion, wearing the colors of the Woman's Swimming Association of New York, bettered her own mark for 200 yards by 5 3-5 seconds in negotiating the distance in 3 minutes 10 3-5 seconds. She set the old record at Indianapolis in 1927, seconds by swimming the distance.

Eleanor Holm, 200-meter backstroke champion, lowered her own record of 5 minutes 2 4-5 seconds by swimming the distance in 4 minutes 44 1-5 seconds.

Lesa Lindstrom, Almeida, Cal., clipped 20 seconds from her own record for the 700-yard free style swim in the fast time of 10 minutes 27 2-10 seconds.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Sir Thomas Lipton's racing sloop Shamrock V, challenger for the America's cup, is to be hauled out late today for cleaning and painting at the shipyard of the Electric Boat Company.

The uppart part of the sloop's racing stick was stepped yesterday and her rigging was being placed today.

GIANTS NEAR LEADERS

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

CUBS, ROBINS GAIN WITH VICTORIES

Associated Press.

Noted for their strong finishes, the New York Giants have climbed in the National League pennant race.

The Giants were a half game behind the second place Brooklyn Robins and only three games behind the league leading Chicago Cubs after Saturday's games. The Giants won 22 out of 32 games in the last month.

WIN FIVE STRAIGHT

They extended their straight winning streak to five games in the first half of yesterday's twin bill by pounding Wild Bill Hallahan, of the Cards, and three successors for 17 hits and a 12 to 4 victory. A seven-run rally in the sixth settled the matter. Burleigh Grimes turned the tables in the second game and the Cards won, 14 to 4.

Chicago and Brooklyn turned in single victories to gain a half game on the Giants and continue their race two and one-half games apart. The Cubs had difficulty with the humble Phillies, but took advantage of their one opportunity when Earl Collard developed a streak of wildness in the eighth. The Cubs then scored two runs to win, 5 to 4.

The Robins played a home game against Pittsburgh and sent out Dazzy Vance to entertain the Flatbush fans. He fanned nine and hurled an eight-hit shutout. The score was 5 to 0.

BRAVES WIN TWO

The Boston Braves supplied Cincinnati's fans with enough thrills for a world series in a double-header between two clubs buried deep in the second division. The Braves barely edged out a 4-to-3 victory in the first game, then went 13 innings in the night-cap to win, 9 to 8, as 37 players, 11 of them pitchers, strove for a victory.

Washington's attempt to overhaul the Philadelphia Athletics in the American League pennant chase was halted yesterday after the Senators had taken six straight games. Detroit's Tigers staged an uprising in the first two innings and scored 11 runs to win by a 15-to-1 count.

GIANTS, SOX SPLIT

Babe Ruth and Charley Ruffing gave the New York Yankees a 10-inning victory over the Chicago White Sox, 8 to 7, in the first half of a double bill, but the Sox came back behind Red Faber's pitching to win, 6 to 1, in a second game which was stopped by rain after five innings. Ruth clouted his forty-fourth home run in the seventh inning to tie the score, then made the winning run in the tenth on Ruffing's pinch single.

With the Athletics and St. Louis idle, Cleveland made the day's only important American League gain and remained in fourth place nine and one-half games behind the Yankees. The Indians won both games from the Boston Red Sox with a pair of effective pitching feats. Willis Hudlin kept the Sox hits ineffective in the first clash to gain a 9 to 3 decision, while Clint Brown gave only four blows in the seven-inning second game to win by a 2 to 0 count.

SHIELDS VICTOR

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Frank X. Shields, youthful tennis ace from New York, yesterday won the Maine state singles championship by defeating his fellow townsman, Perry Rockafellow, the defending champion, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3. Rockafellow had held the title for four consecutive years.

Babe Ruth Gives Training Rules for Young Players

DR. PAINTER LAYING DOWN A FEW TRAINING RULES.

By BABE RUTH,
Baseball's Highest-Salaried Player.

Just by way of a finale to his talks with Mac and Joe on training and caring for injuries, Dr. Painter held a little class-room lecture. Here you see Doc telling the boys what it's all about. It wasn't a long class and there were on examinations, but the boys learned plenty before they were finished.

Doc wound up by laying down a few commandments for training—a set of training rules, if you want to call them that. Here they are:

1—Always warm up thoroughly before starting to play.

2—Never favor a sore arm. Throw naturally. Most arm trouble comes from a faulty pitching motion, and then from favoring soreness. Only throw as hard as you can naturally and without pressing.

3—Always keep your arm and body well covered until all sweating has stopped. A slow, thorough rub with a dry towel before bathing is better than a massage to keep muscles supple.

4—Never take a bath until you are entirely through sweating. Keep fully clothed and warm until the sweating has stopped.

CLOSE PORES AFTER BATHING

5—In bathing, take plenty of time and finish up with plenty of cold water. This closes the pores, avoids colds and prevents stiffness.

6—Never prod, jerk or punch a sore muscle. No painful or extreme treatment is beneficial unless administered correctly by an expert who knows his business thoroughly.

11—Pitchers should do lots of running and daily leg and body calisthenics. It's the legs that make a pitcher and these exercises are good not only for endurance but for control and steadiness.

SOME HOME REMEDIES

A saturated solution of vinegar and water, equal parts, with salt makes an excellent solution for soaking sprains or strains. Also an epsom salt pack left on all night.

BELL, JACOBS WIN TITLE

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Clifford Sutter, young Tulane University tennis ace, yesterday added the Eastern grass courts singles title to his intercollegiate championship, defeating Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., No. 10 on the national ranking list, in the finals at the Westchester Country Club. The scores were 4-6, 8-6, 7-5, 4-6, 6-1.

The women's singles title went to Miss Marjorie Gladman, of Santa Monica, after a brilliant display of tennis in which she defeated the sensation of the tournament, Baroness Giacomo Levi, of Italy, 7-5, 4-6, 8-6. Miss Virginia Rice, Boston, and her Cincinnati partner, Miss Clara Zinke, captured the women's doubles by turning back the bid of Miss Virginia Hilleary, Philadelphia, and Miss Dorothy Andrus, Stamford, Conn., 6-3, 7-5.

Berkeley Bell, 1929 intercollegiate titleholder from Austin, Tex., and Eddie Jacobs, Pittsburgh, carried off the men's doubles with a straight set victory over the English team of H. G. N. Lee and S. J. Perry. The scores: 6-4, 6-1, 7-5.

Suarez to Battle Flowers Tomorrow

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Justa Suarez, the joy and pride of all Argentina, makes his third United States appearance tomorrow at Queensboro Stadium, New York, to feature an otherwise drab week of boxing.

The slugging lightweight, whose decisions over old Joe Glick and young Herman Perlick have failed to show much, is on the cards to meet Bruce Flowers, New York Negro, in a 10-round bout that is expected again to arouse Argentine fans if not those in this country.

Jones Turns in First No-Hit Night Game

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Gene Jones, young Springfield Three-Eye League hurler, has one record they can't take away from him—the honor of pitching the first nine-inning no-hit game in night baseball.

Jones last night defeated Decatur, 4 to 1, in the second game of a night doubleheader. He set some other kind of a record when he walked 15 men and still managed to hold his opposition to one run.

The achievement was also the first of the Three-Eye season.

Jones is not the first to pitch a no-hit night game, however. On the night of August 15 Lonnie Warneke, of Reading, pitched no-hit ball against Buffalo, but the game went only seven innings.

ALL-FRENCH TEAM

Picking an all-French American team in football is not as difficult as it might appear. There are those who clashify characteristics and temperament of players according to nationality, but I can see nothing in it. Here is my team:

Knute Rockne

Bettenco urt, St. Mary's, Center.
De Witte, Princeton, right guard.
Prevost, Penn State, right tackle.
Bdujan, Notre Dame, right end.
Dorais, Notre Dame, quarterback.
De Tray, Chicago, fullback.

Take, for instance, two of the men of French extraction who played at Notre Dame. DeGree was the typical Frenchman as we imagine him, volatile, impulsive, ebullient, all dash and zip and playing in spurts, tremendously emotional and only at his best when keyed up. Dorais, the quarterback, with whom I played, is just the opposite: phlegmatic as regards nerves, cool, calm and collected, steady and dependable.

You cannot classify players by nationality or derivation. But this all French-American team probably would have all the ingredients that go to make up a successful offensive team.

POLICE MEET ATTRACTS

Entries are beginning to come in rapidly for the open amateur track and field events, which will feature the twelfth annual field day, to be held at the Stadium Saturday, September 13, under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Police Pension Fund Association.

Jim Watkins, of McKees Rocks, one of the best all-around performers in Western Pennsylvania, has sent in his signed blank, indicating that he will try his luck in the 440-yard and 880-yard runs, the mile and the shotput.

John M. Deni, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Athletic Association, is an entrant in the half-mile walk. Roxey DeMarco, of McKees Rocks, will be a starter in the modified marathon run, which will inaugurate the day's activities.

JOHNS CLIMB NEAR LEAD

The Johnnies won five out of six games in the seven-day period ended Saturday and pushed dangerously close to the top. The Cumberland Colts likewise lost but one of six engagements but their record lacked the impressiveness of the Johnnies.

JOHNNNIES IMPRESSIVE

The first half champions scored 56 runs while making but 59 hits, a smaller array of safeties than was amassed by Jeannette which lost five of seven contests.

In contrast, Scottdale, although smacking out the most hits, 81, and connecting for the most homers, 12, scored only 52 times.

Defensively, Cumberland was most successful in keeping the opposition from scoring, yielding 27 runs. Johnstown and Wheeling each committed but five errors. On the other hand, Jeannette blundered 16 times.

STOGIES WIN

Yesterday, rain washed out two of the four scheduled games in the league. In a night contest at Wheeling, however, the Stogies rallied in the fifth inning to score six runs and defeat Jeannette in the first game of the series, 11 to 7.

At Clarksburg, Wallace won a hurlers' duel from Chapman, the Generals defeated Scottdale, 1 to 0. Noonan singled in the eighth to send Barry over with the only run of the game. Both teams secured seven hits.

Mrs. Moody Winner In Coast Matches

BURLINGAME, Cal., Aug. 18.—(INS.)—Flashing a brilliant brand of tennis, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody defeated Alan Herrington, 6-3, 6-2, in an exhibition game here yesterday. Playing later with Herrington as a partner, Mrs. Moody defeated Lieuts. Lyman and Graham, 6-3, 6-3.

Yankees Boast Six Leaders In A. L.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—The New York Yankees are 10½ games back of the Athletics in the American League pennant race, but they are well on their way to name a few of the individual champions. Of the eight individual leaders, six wear New York uniforms.

Lou Gehrig holds down the batting, the most hits and most runs batted in divisions while Babe Ruth has scored the most runs and pounded out the largest number of homers. Combs completes the Yankee domination with the most triples leadership.

CHAPTER I.

Robin Dale, not long out of college, was hardly past his "dub" days when the Weadon case "broke." The first crime was sensational enough, but the succeeding startling developments fed the metropolitan dailies with headlines and front-page stories for days. The peculiar feature of the case was that the subsequent happenings had apparently no connection with the initial crime, and yet they were all linked in a mysterious, almost uncanny, manner.

Oliver Weadon was cashier of the Hancock National Bank on upper Broadway. One day he disappeared with $100,000 of the bank's money. That crime, of itself, appeared to be simple enough. Yet it was strangely complicated by the manner in which Oliver Weadon was found and a number of subsequent crimes that had no apparent connection with the bank theft. In each of these cases the leading clue was a $1,000 bill, five of which had been stolen from the bank by Weadon.

The Hancock National Bank had a record of the serial numbers on these bills, and, while it was strange that Weadon should under such circumstance have pilfered them, it was even more mystifying when they bobbed up in vastly different locales.

Robin Dale had been assigned by the city editor to get the story. There was little to be learned about Weadon. The cashier was a bachelor, lived alone in an apartment near Central Park and enjoyed a rather sporty existence.

At the bank Dale interviewed the manager, Allan Tenant, and learned that the absconding cashier had always been an exemplary employe.

At that particular period Robin Dale's regular assignment on the Daily Journal was to a unique "headquarters" on West Seventy-ninth street. The place was opposite a police precinct station and his job was to cover police cases.

The headquarters were located in the undertaking and embalming shop of Philip Durocker and served as the meeting place of the reporters from the various papers. Durocker's establishment was a small, seedy-looking shop, the kind which have long since been superseded by the modern "parlors."

Durocker was not an enterprising business man and practically all his income was derived from the newspapers whose reporters used his place as a hangout.

In one corner were a couple of littered desks, on the wall a pay telephone and scattered about were several old battered chairs and a rickety table.

Robin Dale, after telephoning his story to the Daily Journal, returned to his "office" with Bill Watts, of the Evening Sentinel, who had also been on the bank interview. It was a miserable day, rainy and cold, and the two reporters wore their overcoat collars turned up as they approached the entrance to Durocker's.

"Rummy! How many you got, Pop?"

"Ten . . . 17 . . . 27 . . . 30 . . . that's 3 cents I owe you."

"Lo, Pop," said Watts to Durocker. "Did you invent this weather so people can get pneumonia and die?"

"Hey, Sig . . . got a nickel?"

"What do you think I am . . . a buffalo?"

"You're not a buffalo, Sid . . . a buffalo couldn't play rummy as bad as you," Watts retorted. Lippman found a nickel and flipped it to Watts, who went to the wall telephone and called the paper.

Dale sat down at the battered old typewriter, the rummy game continued and Watts, leaving the phone, stretched out in a chair and fell asleep. After a while Dan O'Reilly, of the Morning News, burst in and threw down his wet overcoat. He stepped to the telephone.

"Hello, dearie, didja bring your rubbers today? . . . oh, awright, don't get sore . . . gimme Beekman 15000 . . . hello, city desk? . . . hello, chief, I got a story for you . . . ready? Pat McCarthy, 1247 West Fifty-ninth, comes home pickled and wrecks Cohen's clothing store and Garibaldi's fruit stand, both on his corner, Eleventh . . . about to start on a Chinese laundry when Mrs. McCarthy comes downstairs and parts his hair with an ax . . . he was taken to Polyclinic an' expected to live" . . .

O'Reilly paused for a moment and then frowned. "What? That isn't news? What in blazes! What would you call news?"

O'Reilly was peeved. Then he wilted and in a weak tone of voice grunted "Oh," and hung up.

"What did the big boob say, Dan?" Lippman looked up from his rummy game with a grin.

"He said that if I got the guy's name that sold McCarthy the booze that might be news."

"Those city editors are all the same; don't know a story when one hits 'em in the galley," opined Lippman.

Just then the telephone bell rang. O'Reilly answered.

"It's for you, Dale." Robin Dale took the receiver and got the message. He hung up and turned to the others, his voice being electrified in tenseness.

(To Be Continued Tomorrow.)

(Copyright, 1930, King Features Syn., Inc.)

Since receiving Robin Dale's permission to publish the facts in connection with the many mystery cases in which he was so prominently active the only difficulty I have encountered has been his reticence in explaining affairs in which his physical prowess played a part in the ultimate solution. I have never found any false modesty in Robin Dale's explanation of the mental processes by which he has confounded so many criminals, but he has been shy, to the very point of silence, wherever physical courage played a part. This, despite the fact that he was an intercollegiate boxing champion, an outstanding hero on the football field and was thrice decorated for valor during the World War. It was only recently, while chatting over some of the details of an important case, that I learned of one of the earliest affairs in which Robin Dale took part. In a casual way I asked him which he considered his most exciting adventure. Probably before he thought what his answer would entail he mentioned the one which is the subject of the following narrative. Suddenly he became silent and it was a considerable time before I could get him to say another word about the case. When, finally, he had reluctantly told the whole story I had learned many, many things about Robin Dale which I had never before known, though I have been his closest friend for more than a dozen years.

Corn Belt States Get Heavy Rains

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—The drought has been effectually broken in all but a few small widely scattered areas, the weather bureau announces. States of the corn belt have been soaked by heavy rains. It is estimated these rains will revive crops sufficiently to materially reduce amount of damage.

Anthracite Mines Resume Operations

BOND MARKET CONTINUES QUIET

Investment Issues Gain With Most Improvement Noted in Railroad List

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Business in the bond section of the New York Stock Exchange continues to suffer from mid-summer dullness, but the demand for bonds of the strictly investment type has been sufficient to enable the market during the past week to eclipse twice its average turn of the year.

The best inquiry has been for carrier obligations and the greatest improvement has been in this section, buying of odd bringing into the market many issues which have been dormant for weeks at a time. The sporadic interest shown in high grade industrials enabled that group to break into new high ground in the averages for the first time during the current advance. Gains by utilities were less pronounced. The skimpish new offerings appeared to have affected this group and the foreign dollar bonds to a marked degree. Here and there individual utility and foreign issues showed especial strength last week but the general tone was firm.

CONVERTIBLES DULL

Stock privilege issues were generally dull and many who ordinarily follow that type of bond appeared to have withdrawn to the sidelines to await the outcome of the uncertain course of the share market.

The volume of new offerings was the smallest in weeks totaling $30,767,000 a decline of $40,000,000 from the previous week, and even less than last year when bonds were supplanted by stocks as the leading method of domestic financing. The lightness of new offerings which probably will characterize the month of August has aided the highest type of bonds and bond men expect that gradually fixed income securities ranking below them will be fused with new vitality.

MONEY RATES STEADY

Some hesitancy about adding investment issues was apparent in the earlier part of the week, being symptomatic of uncertainty as to the immediate outlook for the trend of money rates. While call money advanced to 2½ per cent in mid-week time money rates were little changed and bankers who were concerned over the possible effect of further gold exports found reassurance in the buying of $50,000,000 in U. S. governments and bills by the Federal Reserve system to maintain the easy tone, seasonal demands for funds in agricultural sections are appearing and may tend to make the money market less easy but bond men expect that rates will not be affected for some time to come sufficient to reverse the course of the bond market.

DEALERS OPTIMISTIC

Bond houses are reported to be optimistic as to the outlook for investment issues, and some predictions have been made that a "bull bond market" will eventuate. While institutions still continue to provide most of the business for the listed market, bond men report a steadily improved inquiry from individuals for whom the stock market has lost its glamor.

Ontario Gold Mine Output Is Lower

TORONTO, Aug. 18.—Ontario gold mines in July produced 324,993 tons of ore, valued at $2,888,202, against 347,114 tons valued at $2,717,626 in July, 1929. Porcupine camp produced 208,512 tons, valued at $1,467,220, against 258,011 tons, valued at $1,549,104 in July, 1929. Kirkland Lake output was 101,917 tons, valued at $1,365,743, against 891,103 tons, valued at $1,165,124 in July, 1929. Seven months production totaled 2,170,392 tons, valued at $20,056,172, against 2,328,097 tons, valued at $19,221,683 in same period of 1929.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—General selling brought about sharp early breaks in corn and wheat prices today. The downturns of values were associated with rains which fell over the week end, but assertions that there had yet been no complete ending of the drought tended to induce price rallies, and so likewise did talk that damage to corn has largely been irreparable. Opening 1½-3½c lower, the corn market afterward recovered to a material extent. Wheat started ⅝-1⅝c off, sagged a little more, and then steadied.

Important Price Testing Period Looms Ahead of Stock Market

Another important testing period for the stock market lies directly ahead. Friday's spectacular closing spurt in which the silk stocking blue-chip industrial shares jumped from 2 to 14 points was doubtless the result of panicky short covering engineered by powerful bullish factions. The bears had been caught in a trap of their own making the evidence of which was the unusually large number of stocks loaning "flat." The bulls ingeniously circulated rumors about the desertion of the bearish ranks by a number of colorful professional traders and the forecasting of a new upward move by a well-known prognosticator.

Having met the test of the first heavy outpouring of selling pressure, and held at approximately 10 points above the year's low average, it is now "up to" the market to demonstrate whether Friday's vigorous spurt was but a flash in the pan or the beginning of a new and general advance in security values. In the long run, technical market conditions do not cut as large a figure as fundamental business and economic conditions, and a turn in the business tide would promptly be reflected in a substantial rally in stock prices. Bankers and investment leaders have not relished the "campaign of pessimism," as they term it in confidential discussions of the situation, that has been damming up the channels of security buying in recent months. In their opinion the drab side of the picture has been overpainted.

Traders who have made a close study of the market anticipate an upturn in the better grade merchandising shares sometime in the near future and are of the opinion that many of the issues in this group are in an accumulation zone. Best & Co., because of the aggressive expansion policy of its management, is in high favor. Earnings for the first six months of this year were equal to $1.99 per share, as compared with net of $1.78 per share in the like period of 1929. Estimates place the probable earnings results for the full year at close to $4.50. The stock pays a regular dividend of $2, affording a return of approximately 5 per cent at the current market.

Inclusion of Tidewater Associated Oil Company in the consolidation of Sinclair Oil Corporation and Prairie Oil and Gas Company has not yet been determined definitely. Bankers and representatives of the companies have held conversations jointly in regard to such inclusion. However, it is established from reliable information that the merger or Sinclair and Prairie probably will proceed without Tidewater Associated and that determinations with regard to the last named corporation will follow.

Official assurance that the $10 dividend on Canadian Pacific shares would be maintained helped to rally the stock Saturday. Canadian Pacific was one of the weakest stocks on the board during the recent decline and its slide was climaxed by a 10-point break Thursday. On the assumption that the splitup of the shares probably was undertaken to facilitate wider distribution, short sellers have been active in the stock recently and some of them were driven to cover by the statement. With a $10 dividend, the stock has been selling on a more than 5 per cent yield basis for some time.

Wall street has had time for calmer reflection on the farm situation the last few days and apparently has come to the conclusion that, while it is serious, pessimism over crop damage and its probable effect in hampering business revival probably was overdone. The crop scare undoubtedly halted the market's recovery, but some observers profess to have seen some good investment buying going on the last week or so by people who refuse to be stampeded by the mood of the moment.

Predicts Increase In Cigaret Output

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—An output of American cigarets this year which will surpass last year's record total of 127,400,000,000, despite world-wide business depression, is indicated in the sixth annual world survey of the tobacco industry just completed by Charles D. Barney & Co., members of the New York and Philadelphia Stock Exchanges and the Chicago Board of Trade. That the cigaret is steadily gaining ground at the expense of the cigar, pipe and other forms of tobacco is another conclusion reached by the analysis.

Evidence of the remarkable growth of the cigaret business, as contrasted with the decline in other branches of the tobacco industry, is strikingly illustrated in the taxes paid to the Federal government. The 1929 increase of more than $40,000,000 in cigaret revenues over 1928 was sufficient to offset the decrease in revenue from other tobacco sources and to produce an increase of $37,994,502 in total revenue for the year. The total contribution of the tobacco industry to the government last year was $449,058,963. In 1922 the tobacco tax brought in $270,000,000.

Fruit Crop Yield Likely to Increase

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Yield of all fruits as of August 1 is expected by Department of Agriculture to be about 18 per cent above the short crop of 1929, but about 10 per cent less than the 10-year average.

The largest portion of the country's fruit supply is grown outside the area of greatest drought damage, it was said, and these crops for the country, as a whole, have not been affected as seriously as some of the grains.

Mexican Crude Oil Output for July

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 18.—Crude oil production during July amounted to 3,436,516 barrels, a daily average of 110,855 barrels, the Ministry of Industry, Commerce and Labor reports. Revised figures for June show that output during that month totaled 3,286,802 barrels, or 109,560 a day.

The commercial value of the July output was approximately $3,023,926, the ministry estimates, while in June it was $3,353,793.

STOCK PRICES ALTERNATELY FALL, RISE

Bears Encouraged, but Are Unable to Shake Loose Any Landslide of Sales

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—(AP.)—Reactionary commodity markets, failure of week-end trade and business surveys to dispel the speculative gloom, and weakening of the market's technical position by a sharp upturn late last week, bolstered bear courage as the new week began in the stock market.

Prices broke rather sharply under moderate selling pressure many prominent issues tumbling 2 to more than 4 points, but the bear faction again found the market pretty thoroughly sold out, and were unable to shake loose any landslide of general liquidation. In fact, some bull pools bought on the way down. A moderate rally appeared during the morning and again in the early afternoon.

MOVES WIDE

Shares losing 3 to 4 points included Radio, American Telephone, duPont, Air Reduction, Eastman, Northern Pacific, Westinghouse, Radio preferred B and Byers. Baltimore and Ohio broke below 100 with a 3-point loss, and Columbia Graphaphone declined as much to a new low close to 12. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, North American, Consolidated Gas, Sears-Roebuck and Fox Film were among issues selling off 2 or more. Rallies of 1 to 3 points from the bottom levels were numerous, cancelling several losses. There were a few firm spots. Ingersoll Rand, a wide mover, shot up 10 in a few sales, and Missouri Pacific, Woolworth, United Aircraft and First National Stores were firm. American Can also turned firm.

Trading was still of a highly professional character, largely for the account of floor traders, and during the morning the turnover was only about two-thirds of that of Saturday's half-day session. On the whole, traders regarded the market as in a critical testing area, and were inclined to stay on the sidelines.

Brokerage house gossip heard last Friday and Saturday that a prominent statistician would issue bullish recommendations over the week-end proved to have been somewhat misguided, as such gossip often has been in the past. This statistician, in common with statistical services generally, thought that selected stocks should be bought at these levels for long term holding, but warned of the prospect of intermediate reactions. There was little tendency in the Monday advices of any of the statistical services to urge any rapid or immediate accumulation of stocks.

BEARS ATTACK RADIO

While floor brokers who normally act for the market sponsors of Radio Corporation common took large blocks of stock at descending levels, this issue proved the choice of the bears as a focal point for their activity. The sponsors of the issue professed to be favorably impressed by the first half statement, showing the successful working off of huge inventories in a demoralized market, but bears questioned the safety of the $3.50 annual dividend on the Class A preferred, since only $1.27 a share was earned in the first six months.

Wall street was all set for one piece of bad news which failed to appear. Kennecott directors were scheduled to meet this morning, and rumor had it that a quarterly dividend of only 50 cents would be ordered, against 75 cents in the last quarter, but the meeting was indefinitely postponed because of lack of a quorum.

Credit conditions at this center continued favorable, with call loans renewing at 2½ per cent and funds available in the outside market at 2. The demand for commercial paper exceeded the supply.

Investment Trust Makes First Report

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The initial report of Interstate Equities Corporation, an investment trust formed a year ago by Bancamerica-Blair interests, showed profits of $1,057,833 to June 30, which, after preferred dividends, was equal to 42 cents per share of common. The report classed as earnings only dividends, interest and profits of financing operations. The trust began operating in the last quarter of 1929.

Bituminous Coal Production Drops

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Production of soft coal during the week ended August 9 is estimated by the United States Bureau of Mines as 7,850,000 tons, a decrease of 141,000 tons, or 1.8 per cent, from the previous week and 1,847,000 tons under output in the same 1929 period.

Hupp Motor Car Co. Reopens Factories

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—Both local plants of Hupp Motor Car Corporation have resumed operations after a shutdown for two weeks' vacation. Approximately 1,500 men are employed in the two plants.

California Crude Oil Output Higher

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—California crude oil production in the week ended August 16 totaled 618,950 barrels daily, an increase of 4,700 barrels daily from the previous week, according to California Oil World.

LACK OF MONEY TRUST HARMS MARKET

Writer Lays Wall Street Price Raids to Absence Of Centralized Control

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The lack of a money trust in Wall street, the existence of which was sought by congressional inquisitors in 1911, accounts for the recent policy of violent drives against stock prices, followed by rapid surges upward on short coverings. Such brutal maneuvers, reflecting the lack of a centralized guiding mind in the financial district, help to encourage public aloofness from the market place at a time when general conditions would be helped by a revival of confidence and a re-entry of the public to a somewhat greater extent into the market.

Merryle S. Rukeyser.

The contradictory fluctuations in stock prices of the last week reflect only the highly professional character of the trading. Massed bear drives were sufficient to make the stock price structure collapse, but the same bears, desiring later to cover, found that the thin market was extremely sensitive to buying orders and recovered rapidly when they bought stock previously borrowed.

RALLIES PREMATURE

With the ratio of loans to stock prices at a new low level, stocks appear to be in a strong technical position, but in the absence of tangible news of trade improvement, premature rallies appear to rest on a foundation of quicksand. There will doubtless be other false starts upward before a substantial, sustained movement begins.

Meantime, more significant than the give and take of professional traders, who are opportunists rapidly changing their positions, is the willingness of investors to absorb standard stocks at these levels and thus reduce the floating supply. Some financiers have preferred to hold off and await the actual event of business revival before making commitments, eschewing the process of discounting.

SEASONAL GAIN NEAR

What with the drought following cyclical recession, business at midsummer has ebbed, but it is now on the verge of the period of seasonal improvement. Col. Leonard P. Ayres, of the Cleveland Trust Company, predicts that the improvement will be more than seasonal, and a leading corporation, which makes careful statistical studies, thinks business is now at the bottom and will show gradual improvement from this point, reaching normal by July, 1931, and soaring 2 per cent above normal by December, 1931.

Meantime, as Sir Josiah Stamp recently pointed out, we are fallaciously over-emphasizing immediately visible facts about prosperity and depression in evaluating common stocks. He rightly pointed out that the investment value of stocks depends on average earning power over a period of years and also on long term prospects.

LONG-TERM OPPORTUNITIES

In the probable sequence of events, it is more reasonable to expect a bull market in bonds before there will be another bull market in stocks. Accordingly the time has not yet passed to forsake a balanced investment diet. From a long term investment standpoint the current ebbing of faith gives a gorgeous opportunity for the prudent to replenish their commitments in stocks of premier corporations, which in happier times sell at distinctly higher price earnings ratios.

It is more profitable to express faith in the country when faith is rare than to do so at the peak of a bull market when faith in the future is really a drug on the market.

DROUGHT MAY BENEFIT

The drought can hardly be considered good news. Yet harmful though it is, it may be the dramatic event which will mark the turn in commodity prices—and a stabilization of commodity prices would do much to promote business recovery.

Furthermore, at a time when confidence was at low ebb, the drought has demonstrated anew the energy and initiative with which Americans grapple with large problems. President Hoover has proceeded vigorously, and has challenged the whispering campaign that there is no strong man in the White House.

Mr. Hoover has had a good grasp on the general business situation, and has had the wisdom to abstain from making economically unsound moves. Where prompt action was needed, as in case of the drought, the President has moved rapidly and effectively.

Northerns Reply To I. C. C. Petition

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Great Northern and the Northern Pacific Railroads declared in answer to petitions to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission for a reopening of their merger case, that a reopening of it now would be premature because the companies now are drafting a supplemental application in compliance with the commission's report on the merger.

DAILY TRUE STORY

The City Slicker

In the fust place," Uncle Si Whitcomb complained, "our own Weed's Mills fellers is good enough to go 'round with an' be friendly. There ain't no call for you to be so all-fired friendly with that city slicker.

"Oh, now, Unc—This Rance Porter's a likely chap—even if he did come from New York."

"Likely? You mean slick—an' slippery—all them fellers from th' city is like that—slipperier than two armsful of ells an' two fists full of raw oysters."

Silas Whitcomb glared at his nephew.

Uncle Si Whitcomb expectorated over the porch rail and stroked his grizzled beard as he eyed his nephew with plain disfavor.

Bart Whitcomb's full name was Silas Bartholomew Whitcomb. Uncle Silas Whitcomb never forgave him for calling himself "Bart" instead of "Si."

He made no secret of the fact that he was disgusted to think his own "nevvy," as he called Bart, should choose the given name of "Bart" rather than "Si." More than that, he made it clear to Bart that when he passed out of the realm of the living his farm at Weed's Mills and his entire fortune of $7,000 would not go to Bart.

"Th' farm goes to my niece, Ann Hodgkins," Uncle Si told Bart, with great frequency, "and my cash fortune goes to th' Free Will Baptist Church, every penny."

Bart always smiled at his cantankerous old uncle and said: "It's yours to give, Unc. I guess I got more at my age than you had when you wasn't any older."

Uncle Angry

This always made the old man angry. It was true enough. He never denied it, but he attributed it all to luck. He didn't believe the present generation had any brains at all.

Even when Bart's cousin, Ann Hodgkins, married a very wealthy man, old Si persisted that the farm would go to her.

They rehashed this old argument again after Uncle Si scolded about Bart's friendship with Rance Porter, of New York, the "city slicker."

"What sort of a deal you makin' with him, Rance?" the old man asked, "a buyin' or a sellin' deal?"

"Buyin', most likely."

The old man snorted. It was a loud and derisive snort.

"How many gold bricks you aim to be buyin' off him?"

Bart laughed and the old man regretted saying what he did.

"If I buy any gold bricks, Unc, they'll have to be gold all the way through," he said.

"You are an impudent, scatterbrained young whelp, and you'll end up in the poorhouse, mark my words!" Uncle Si raved.

Bart diplomatically made no reply but looked through a fat notebook he had in his pocket. Truth was, Si Whitcomb, forty years before, had actually bought a gold brick from a city slicker—a brick that was gold-plated and consisted of ordinary lead in the remainder of its proportions.

And what's more, I hear you're sprucin' up to Squire Allen's daughter. As if he'd let her marry a good-for-nothin' like you! You ain't got no regular work—you let out the farm your father left you on halves. You jest sort of loaf around. And now that you've sold that mountain meadow piece for almost nothin' you'll spend that money and then where'll you be?"

"I got eight thousand for it, Unc."

"It was wuth twice that—it's the best piece of farm land in these parts. Even if you do have to drive eight miles up th' hotch to get to it. I've a mind to buy it myself."

"Don't do it—its assessed value is 15 hundred and that's all you'd ever get for it."

"You're goin' crazy, talkin' like that. And now you aim to go in a dicker with that city slicker and git skun out of your eye teeth. I'm disgusted with you—don't come whinin' to me when you're broke—I wouldn't give you a red cent."

Talks With Squire

"I know you wouldn't, Unc, and I wouldn't take a red cent from you, but you're a good old scout at that and I like you. I always liked you."

"Fair words butter no parsnips," the old man quoted.

Bert laughed and went his way.

But he was in for more criticism.

A few nights later when he drove over to see Squire Allen's daughter, Nancy, the Squire sat on the well curb with him while Nancy was sprucing up, as they called it, to go to the village house with him.

"In five years that mountain meadow will be worth 10 thousand, Bart," the Squire said.

"Don't buy it for more than a thousand, Squire," Bart advised.

"What regular work you doin' now, Bart?" the Squire wanted to know. Bart suspected that the Squire had been listening to his Uncle Si recently.

"Working out some deals, Squire."

"You aim to let him sell you something, I hear."

"I might let him do that."

"I'm afraid, Bart, that you are scatter-brained. I don't want to make no scenes, but after tonight don't bother to call on Nancy. To be frank with you, boy, I don't want her to waste her time on a born failure like you. And then again, you won't have a shirt to your back when this city sharper gits through with you!"

"Well, thanks for being so thoughtful, Squire—I mean about tonight—letting Nancy go with me."

"If you'd settle down, Bart, you're a likely boy. I'd help you, as long as Nancy sort of favors you."

"Settle down? You think I'm wild?"

"No, Bart, just shiftless and simple. You let out your farm at halves instead of getting all the profits by working it yourself. You dicker and dicker here and there, and now you go around with that city feller, Porter, he'll have th' fillin' out of your teeth along with the eight thousand you got for the land—mark my words."

Meets Porter

"You have, Bart. That's the trouble. Father won't countenance me marrying you. He's going to buy that mountain meadow land you sold."

They had other things to talk of, such as the moonlight and matrimony. But next day Bart drove over and advised the Squire not to buy the land.

"I can get it for eight five hundred; it's worth ten right now. Your judgment bump on your head is likely enough a dent, Bart," the Squire said, and he added: "Don't bother to call Nancy out. She knows how I feel about you."

"Well, if you buy the land you'll lose seven thousand flat. I can't explain, or I won't. Every man for himself. Gosh, I've got to drive to the train and meet Rance Porter."

"Sorry you are so blanked dumb, boy," the Squire said as Bart hurried down and got into his car.

He met Rance Porter. They went to Springland, the shire town. They transacted some business first and Bart's eight thousand went into Rance Porter's hands. Then they played some pool and had dinner at the tavern, where Bart was able to get a little something stronger than soda pop.

Rance remained another week. He and Bart fished the trout streams a great deal and drove here and there.

Uncle Si Whitcomb and Squire Allen got together and wagged their heads mournfully over the downfall of Bart through that awful city slicker.

Rance Porter went back to the city. Bart remained. Now and then, seemingly by accident, he would meet Nancy Allen.

Squire Allen met Bart after this.

"I advised you not to buy it—now you're going to be mad at me," Bart told him.

The squire laughed.

Uncle Si asked Bart, a month later, if he was broke.

"I got a few hundred for my share of the crops," Bart said.

"That'll probably go to the city slicker, like your $8,000, and don't you come snivelling 'round to me when you ain't got a solitary red cent."

Goes to City

"I won't," Bart promised.

He met Nancy secretly that night and next day he went to the city. He was gone four days. When he got back Squire Allen came right over to his place.

"Look here, I understand you got some stock in the new power company, Bart. Tell me where I can get some," he said.

"None for sale, Squire. That city slicker, Rance Porter, had 40 per cent of the stock left him when his father died. He thought it was no good, a wild-cat thing, so I just made friends with him and bought it for the $8,000 I got for the mountain meadow land."

"You got 40 per cent for eight thousand? Why it's worth more than a hundred thousand, this minute!" the Squire exclaimed.

"I know it—it was worth that when I let the city slicker make a fool of me—"

"Come, come now, don't boast. I admit me and your Uncle Si were a mite mistaken. And they've taken over the land of the power reservoir at assessed value, and if you'll promise never to say 'I told you so' I'll do anything you ask."

"All right. I'll ask to stay to dinner, Squire. I want to talk things over with Nancy."

"What things, Bart?"

Squire Arlen called up to the house and Nancy appeared in the doorway.

"Bart's stayin' to dinner," he announced.

"Guess I know that, father. He wrote me from the city that he'd be here to dinner today," Nancy said.

Uncle Si Whitcomb is mighty proud of his nephew now.

"He actually went and got th' best of a city slicker," he boasts, "and what's more, I always said he would!"

Prohibition Not an Issue In Gubernatorial Fight

Gifford Pinchot, Republican candidate for Governor, quite properly rebuked his Democratic opponent, John M. Hemphill, in his speech at Fogelsville Saturday for Hemphill's attempt to make prohibition the chief issue in the campaign. No straddler or equivocator, Pinchot reiterated that he favors prohibition, but emphasized that the prohibition question is of secondary importance in the gubernatorial contest.

There are thousands of voters in Pennsylvania who disagree with Pinchot on the liquor question, yet will vote for him in November, because not the Governor but Congress is the instrumentality to which we must look for repeal or modification of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act. No matter how strongly the Governor may oppose prohibition, he is powerless to change the National law.

Hemphill is, accordingly, merely attempting to blind the voters to the really important issues when he seeks to draw Pinchot into a debate on prohibition. There are policies of administration in which the Governor is the deciding factor, and they are the issues of chief importance. Stricter regulation of the public utilities, fair rates, abolition of the coal and iron police, honest elections, positions for the unemployed, development of the State's resources—these are some of the things that require consideration in electing a Governor.

It was Pinchot's satisfactory attitude on these matters that won him the Republican nomination, and if he should be deprived of the nomination through the Supreme Court decision in the Luzerne County perforated ballot case, a multitude of Republicans will again vote for him in November because they like his stand on these questions and are not satisfied with the stand of Francis Shunk Brown and John M. Hemphill. That he is dry has nothing to do with these problems.

Foolish Secretiveness In Slot Machine Case

The extreme sensitiveness shown by the police in regard to the news that four boys had discovered a slot machine in Soho is a favorable sign. It suggests that they have become aware that the existence of the slot machine racket in the city reflects discredit on the force. Can it be that orders have been issued by an authority "higher up" to suppress all news relating to slot machines? It looks like it. Such secretiveness, or attempted secretiveness, shows stupidity.

There have been several cases in the last year in which boys were arrested for stealing or damaging slot machines. The police made no effort to conceal the news. Either they failed to perceive or were indifferent to the fact that the discovery of the unlawful device by the boys directed attention rather conspicuously to the failure of the police to find them of their own initiative. There was sarcastic comment to the effect that the police ought to employ the boys as detectives, but they did not mind the sarcasm.

So it was rather surprising, when four boys were arrested last week on the charge of stealing a slot machine in which they had lost $6, that the police should first give out that they had stolen a cash register and then endeavor to hush up the matter altogether by having Magistrate Thomas D. Jones hold the hearing in secret, with reporters barred. There was great dismay and loud threatening when it was found that a Sun-Telegraph man had seen the record in the case and discovered its true nature.

If the police have really become thin-skinned—if criticism of their attitude towards the slot machine racket has become painful—there is hope that they may change their attitude. When they find out that they cannot conceal the facts they may be persuaded to remove the cause of the criticism—that is, to see that there are no slot machines around the city for boys to lose their money in.

Automobile Improvements Necessitate Another Show

Little is now said in regard to the mythical "saturation point" at which automobile sales were to reach their peak. If there is such a point, it is generally agreed that it lies somewhere in the dim and misty future. We still occasionally hear the remark, however, that automobiles have now been thoroughly standardized, with the last improvement made that it is possible to make.

What an interesting commentary it is on that supposition that so many improvements have been effected since the automobile show was held here last winter that the Pittsburgh dealers feel they cannot wait until next winter to display them, and so have arranged to hold a mid-year show beginning next Saturday. After more than a quarter of a century of development, changes for the better—radical changes—are still being made!

Visitors to the show will see refinements in transmission, eliminating noise and making it possible to shift gears without depressing the clutch; they will see eight cylinders in cars that a few months ago had only six; they will see improvements in lubricating systems, more comfortable and more elegant bodies, and other notable changes.

Nearly every motorist thinks his machine, no matter what make he is driving, is a mighty good car. And so it is. But if he will visit the automobile show and look at the new models he will see better cars.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Tommy Returns

Sir Thomas Lipton arrived in a luxurious suite aboard the Leviathan which is the biggest boat in the world except when you are trying to get accommodations on it.

"Bugs" Baer

It was exactly 62 years ago that Sir Thomas, who then was known only as Tommy to the King, came to America in steerage.

Which is strange because steerage is exactly what his Shamrocks seem to lack. They can't steerage themselves to the finish line.

Sixty-two years ago would be 1868. As the 17-year-old oolong baron neared Ellis Island he heard galooping noises that informed him we were a nation of tea drinkers.

At that time it was not compulsory to drink tea. So we drank it.

"Ah," thought Sir Tommy. "I hear the sound of the Ceylon surf breaking on the rockbound saucer.

"Drinking out of the saucer is all right. But I must teach Americans to drink out of cups. They hold more than saucers."

So he started a campaign of advertising in 1868 to wean us away from the saucer. It succeeded and just as soon as we became accustomed to looking around with a spoon in our eyes we took our rightful place behind everybody as a world leader.

And that's the story of Lipton's success. We are sorry that it doesn't include the five Shamrocks.

This is the fifth time that Tommy has sailed across in triumph and sailed back go-as-you-please.

Although he came over in the Leviathan he has crossed many times in his challengers. He came over in the Shamrock Fourth the last time.

For weeks the Shamrock Fourth plunged through barren and deserted oceans. Not a sail was seen for months.

"I haven't seen another sail since we started." Sir Tom said at the time, "I must admit that it's just like racing."

But he never gives up hope. And never gets any to give up. We like him because he keeps on building his challengers and never claims that his opponent wears hard bandages and footfaults.

If we had anything to say about the America cup we would give it to Tommy without a contest. He seems to want it. And there haven't been any other claimants since 1492.

Nobody knows where it is, what it looks like or who's got it. Why not chase the mice out of it and give it to Thomas to love and cherish?

We cannot fill it with anything worth while so it might as well be a busy little teapot.

LORD LISTER

By Archibald Henderson

It is probable that most people remember Lister only because a certain pleasant, antiseptic mouth wash was named for him. In reality, his name is coupled in the history of science with that of Pasteur.

Lister made use of the principles discovered by Pasteur and applied them in the practice of surgery with truly phenomenal results. Although Pasteur far surpassed Lister as a scientist, certain it is that Lister conferred almost incomparable benefits to the human race in the introduction of the principles of antisepsis into surgical practice. Writing to Pasteur in 1874, Lister said:

"Allow me to take this opportunity to tender to you my most cordial thanks for having, by your brilliant researches, demonstrated to me the truth of the germ theory of putrefaction and thus furnished me with the principles upon which alone the antiseptic system can be carried out."

Joseph Lister, born on April 5, 1827, at Upton, Essex, England, was the son of a Quaker, pious and able. His father is remembered for the study of lenses and the valuable improvements he effected in the structure of the compound microscope. Young Joseph went to a day school, where he studied scientific subjects as well as languages, and soon developed a great taste for anatomy.

When he was only 15 or 16 years old he wrote an essay entitled "The Similarity of Structure Between the Monkey and the Man." He did quite a lot of experimental surgery on fish and small animals, and made models of them. In a letter he wrote:

"When Mama was out I was by myself and had nothing to do but draw skeletons, so I finished the cranium and named the bones of it, and also drew and painted the bones of the front and back of the hand and named them. Mama came home on seventh day (Saturday) at about 2 o'clock, and in the evening, with John's help, I managed to put up a whole skeleton, that of a frog, and it looked just as if it were going to take a leap; and I stole one of Mary's pieces of wood out of one of the drawers of the cabinet in the museum to stick it down upon, and put it on the top of the cabinet with a small bell glass over it and it looks rather nice. Don't tell Mary about the wood."

After taking degrees at the university in London the young man, now a promising surgeon, obtained an appointment at the Edinburgh Royal Infirmary. Later he went to Glasgow, where in 1860 he became professor of surgery and inaugurated the researches which made him world-famous. The great mortality in hospitals, from wounds of various sorts, absorbed his attention. In her interesting book, "Men Who Found Out," Amabel Williams-Ellis says:

"Quite independently Lister came to the conclusion that when a wound went wrong, exactly the same thing was happening as when beer fermented or milk went sour. The wound went wrong only because bacteria got into it. If the skin was broken or cut, either by accident or by the surgeon, germs very like the yeasts, but giving rise to blood-poisoning, erysipelas or the terrible hospital gangrene, got in at the unprotected place and grew and multiplied there. The fevers, swellings, and so on, which always came with the diseases, were the result of the irritation caused by the growth of these tiny living creatures. If living bacteria could not get in, then there was no trouble. A wound was chiefly dangerous because it was a door through which the germs could get in."

The conditions in the hospitals of the time were indescribably horrible. The instruments were not sterilized, the surgeons and nurses wore old clothes, germs swarmed over everything. Puerperal fever was like a plague; in some of the hospital 80 per cent of wounds became affected with gangrene. In 1868, the year in which Lister introduced the use of carbolic acid, the death rate following amputation was at the criminally high rate of 60 per cent!

Lister's method of antisepsis changed all that. He kept all his instruments sterilized, was scrupulously clean himself, wore a fresh uniform when operating, and kept a spray of carbolic acid going over the wound all the time he was operating. In a short time after the introduction of Lister's methods, the death rate following amputations was reduced to one-third; hospital gangrene quickly disappeared; and miraculous results were effected.

Lister was universally recognized in his lifetime as a great benefactor of the human race. Honors innumerable were showered upon him. He lived long enough to enjoy universal recognition for his splendid service to humanity.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Take jobs, for instance. They want and need work. They prepare themselves with desperate eagerness. Yet, someone else—no brighter, no better dressed—is given the preference. Why?

Or at home. Why don't they click with the neighbors? Lazier people, sillier people, are loved and sought. Why do folk tighten when they come around?

No use telling them they "imagine" it. They don't imagine it. It's true. People do avoid them and discriminate against them. Is it deliberate cruelty? or because—as they so often wail—they're too serious, too refined, too good for our common standards. No, it isn't. It's because they're too UNCOMPORTABLE — because they actually emanate waves of irritation and depression, and others quite naturally avoid them as they would any other pest.

Ever see a squid doing its stuff? The squid, in repose, seems a meek enough creature. It does not leap nor lunge nor gnash its teeth when you approach. Nevertheless, in its squiddish manner, it raises particular Cain. For the squid carries within its anatomy a sac of fluid black as ink. And if anything intrudes upon the squid's private waters, the squid squirts and the intruder is enveloped in highly disagreeable darkness. From which you may gather why the squid is not a popular beast.

Why do some people never get the breaks? Why are they avoided, discriminated against? That's why. They carry within their natures an accumulation as bitter and dark as the squid's ink—an accumulation of resentment, envy, fear, suspicion and self-pity. They think it is a secret accumulation. They do not know that they, themselves, project the darkness which defeats them. But they do. For, as the squid colors the waters, so do they inject their poison into their environment.

And that isn't merely a simile. It is an exact statement. Thoughts are THINGS—things as tangible as rays of sunshine and squirts of ink. And they make themselves felt. Dark thoughts cannot be hidden.

They squirt themselves all over the premises. They smell—they yell—they jostle and jab. They are infinitely more potent and powerful than physical expressions. Some day we will undoubtedly be able to tabulate and measure certain human vibrations . . . as we now measure wave lengths and volts. Then we will be able to state, in scientific terms, why one person is magnetic and the other negative—why one person is sought and the other avoided. But, though we can't do that yet, we do base our judgments on these invisible radiations. AND WE AVOID SQUIDS!

Then what's the answer for the unfortunate human squids? The answer is—DON'T BE ONE! Don't accumulate darkness within yourself. Don't—through fear or conceit or cussedness—magnify your grudges until they form an ink sac within you. For if you generate gloom, you will give out gloom. AND WHATEVER YOU GIVE, THE WORLD WILL GIVE BACK TO YOU.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Of Daphne

What does the old house think about
When all the lights have been turned out;
Dark, dark from sill to rafter?
What does find to lend it cheer
Except the memory, sweet and clear,
Of Daphne's laughter?

It must be lonely in the gloom
When quiet reigns in every room,
With ghostly shadows wringing;
But then the silent house recalls
The loveliest music of its walls
In Daphne's singing.

Like this old house my life might be,
Had I but blessed memory
To still my lonely yearning.
Had I no hope whose promise gleams
In rosy hues through all my dreams . . .
Daphne's returning.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

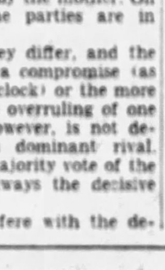
In certain invertebrates, we may note, sex-reversal normally and regularly occurs in the life-cycle.

As Dr. Orton, of Plymouth, has shown, the adolescent oyster is male; then it becomes female; and thereafter it swings slowly from sex to sex with a yearly rhythm. But this has little to do with the reversals that we have been considering.



H. G. Wells

There is apparently no chromosome-difference concerned with sex in the oyster any more than there is in those plants which bear male and female organs on one flower.

Sex in such cases is a matter of local influences in the process of development.

SECTION 8. INTERSEXES.

This brief study of sex-determination has done much to enlarge our minds from the rather crude gene-determination with which we necessarily began. Normally, as we showed at the outset of this chapter, sex is determined at fertilization and is plainly a Mendelizing character.

But since then we have gradually unfolded a number of qualifying forces that do much to modify the results of that primary decision. Let us take stock of our position.

The egg is an almost unformed sphere of living substance. When it is fertilized it begins to organize and shape itself, and soon it becomes under the direction of the genes, the little parliament within the nucleus. The parliament is not altogether harmonious, for every character of the future individual is decided by debate between two rival parties of genes, contributed one by the father and one by the mother. On some points the parties are in agreement.

On others they differ, and the result is either a compromise (as in the pink 4 o'clock) or the more or less complete overruling of one gene, which, however, is not destroyed, by its dominant rival. And even the majority vote of the genes is not always the decisive factor.

We can interfere with the developmental processes experimentally, and our results can illuminate those intranuclear operations, and can show in some cases how the chromosomal decisions are put into operation.

Recent genetical work is modifying our ideas about the procedure in this microscopic parliament very considerably.

We propose to make the point clear by considering in some detail the determination of sex in the fruit fly. We shall make it clear that other genes may take quite an important share in the sex-determining work.

In this most instructive insect, the males, as we have already noted, have on stout, rod-shaped X-chromosome and one hooked Y-chromosome in each nucleus; the females have two X rods and no Y. These are normally the sex-determining chromosomes.

The other chromosomes which have been called "autosomes" to distinguish them from the sex-determiners, are the same in both sexes.

We have told that Drosophila contains four pairs of chromosomes, so that each nucleus which form two sets each set including a little round chromosome and two long V-shaped chromosomes.

One autosome set, of course, comes from each parent. All this we have displayed already in that map of the genes of Drosophila which we have reproduced.

Now during the intensive study of variation and heredity in this creature a strain turned up in which the sperms and ova were abnormal, the sorting of the chromosomes at the reduction division being inaccurately performed.

So that among the zygotes individuals with all sorts of abnormal chromosome outfits appeared. Some had one X, some had two, some had three and even four. And similarly with the Y's, and with the other chromosomes.

It was found first that the Y contained few or no active genes and played the role of an inert dummy; it was a mere dancing partner for the X; at any rate, it had no say whatever in sex-determination.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Came a persuasive telegram from Charles G. Norris to come to the Bohemian links near San Francisco. And my wife urged me to, but I have played too much albeit others who frolic more accomplish great things.

So breakfasting off a modernistic chromium table in our new chambers, the black dishes as pretty as ever I saw, and at the moment wonder how I endured living in hotels so many years. Finished my stint and sat watching iron mongers on the new Waldorf cater-cornered from my window.

In the evening came upon C. N. Landon, the art editor, and we for a spin in a charabanc through the park, discussing art, pool and the high enthusiasm of Ray Long. Stopped at the Algonquin to pick up H. N. Swanson and, seeing Frank Case, praised his floating island, but he unmoved. So home, very hungry.

Eleventh avenue broods in sullen languor during hot months—a jumble of dark warehouses. Coffee Pots, soft drink and pool parlors. Sidewalks are criss-crossed with those white-chalked hieroglyphics of slum children's games. Upstairs windows are eternally framed with women whose eyeballs seem lumps of mud—gazing at nothing. Capped men stand on corners in shirt-sleeved indolence. Undertakers in black ties sit in curb chairs. There is not the shrill gabble of the Ghetto, but the foment of unrest is always churning. O. Henry called it "the street that never laughs."

The most terrifying name in gangland was coined on Eleventh avenue and bestowed upon Harry Horowitz before he moved to the lower East Side, to be electrocuted later in the Rosenthal murder roundup. Horowitz went from Eleventh avenue as Gyp the Blood, a sobriquet inspired by more romance than most underworld monikers. He was a pale dreamy lad who liked to roam the wooded hills of Jersey, a gypsying type—hence Gyp. In lighter moments a dude—a blood. Hence: Gyp the Blood.

An inveterate cigaret-smoking novelist over night lost his nicotine taste astonishingly. For years he smoked from 30 to 40 cigarets a day. The other week his after-dinner cigaret did not taste right. He lighted another. Same result. Next day the same and for five weeks he has not smoked—every vestige of the appetite vanishing. He gained 14 pounds and is happier than all get out.

The dernier cri in glorified doormen graces an East Fifty-fourth street cafe. He is roped with gold impressively and stands at attention before arriving limousines. But he does not open doors. A page boy in white duck does that. Meet me at the general uprising!

Last summer every road house cabaret had alert, slick-haired boys who suddenly jumped out of nowhere to burst into senseless rhyming. One slapped a portable piano, another cymbals, still another a triangle, and so on, with all rolling on the floor in epileptic seizures as a finale. No person knows where it all came from and how no one seems to know or care where it has gone.

The Chrysler Building expects to realize $150,000 a year from admittance fees to its observation tower on the seventy-first floor, and the Woolworth Tower gazing business has improved instead of slumped as a result. View hounds like to compare the two views.

* * *

I wonder why buying a hat is such an ordeal—at least for me. Today a salesman adjusted one, stood off appraising it, suddenly stepped up and tapping my forehead inquired: "Are you all right there?" I should have laughed. But I wanted to bust him in the jaw.

I suppose every man secretly expects to look like John Barrymore with binoculars over his shoulders strolling through the paddock in a new hat, and the result does things. I walk in for one dripping sweetness and light and come out a potential Jack the Ripper.

My new hat is called "Gabriel"—a name suggesting a toot. And the way I look in it I am entitled to a three-day crying jag.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Do you fuss and fume and fret when you cannot accomplish what you set out to do?

Even in sports do you become angry and make a display of temper of which you should be ashamed?

Because you cannot do a certain thing a certain way you are peeved when it is your own lack of practice, application or ability that stands in the way.

Your mistakes are very often due to lack of concentration.

You decide before each undertaking to do everything according to most approved fashion and then you go ahead violating the most important rule and failure is the result.

There are certain principles governing everything which if carried out will get as good results as your ability will permit.

It is your fault if you don't follow these principles.

It is a sign of weakness on your part to become angry and cuss because of your failure to exercise control over some natural tendency.

The difference between doing the thing the right way or the wrong way is within your power, so far as your ability permits, but when you do a thing worse than usual it is foolish to admit before others that you lack self mastery.
